OFFER LETTERS IN ALIEN CASE

TRY TO PROVE MILLER KNEW OF BAD CLAIM

Attorney Says Documents Were on File in Custodian's Office

DAUGHERTY NOT P.A.R.T.Y

Clerk Under Miller Testifies in $7,000,000 Property
Transfer

New York—(AP)—Documentary evidence was submitted Monday at the trial of Harry M. Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller to show that at the time they approved a claim for $7,000,- 000 they had in their files proof that the claim was invalid.

This evidence was introduced through John J. Fitzgerald, New York attorney who represented the American Metal company, in negotiations with the alien property custodian.

Fitzgerald identified a letter he sent the alien property custodian in 1916, in which he sought for American officers of the American Metal company permission to buy shares of the company owned by Germans.

LETTERS ON FILE

United States Attorney Buckner then called Paul Smith, clerk under Miller, to show the letter was in files in the alien property custodian's office at the time the claims of the Societe Suisse was paid on claim that it was neutral owned.

This evidence by a court ruling did not apply to Daugherty as he was in the opinion of Judge Mack, not accountable for documents filed in other than his own office.

8 VESSELS MISSING AS RESULT OF HURRICANE

New York—(AP)—Steamship companies Monday awaited word from at least eight vessels unreported since the tropical hurricane last week. It is not definitely known that all the ships were within the storm area and it is assumed by shipping men that vessels which were unaffected would not consider it necessary to notify their offices.

The Clyde line operating between New York and Miami, Monday denied that the S. S. Cherokee, with a full complement of passengers was within the storm area.

The Munson line had received no word from any of its vessels. It was thought two freighters may have felt the force of the hurricane.

CAMPAIGN TO BE BASED ON PROSPERITY

Coolidge Considers Economic Condition of Country
Paramount Issue

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1926, by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—President Coolidge returns to the national capital after one of the most unusual experiences in the art of politics by implication. Mr.
Coolidge took no activity or explicit part in the congressional campaign nor is there any indication that he will between now and November. But he brought out and emphasized what he considers the paramount issue—the prosperous condition of the country.

Some callers were invited, others dropped in to pay their respects and their views were given to the assembled newspapermen but the sum total of the interviews given out at the executive offices at Paul Smith's was designed to corroborate Mr. Cool-idge's estimate of the economic condition of the country.

SIGNS OF PROSPERITY

First there came Edsel Ford who knew from all his many branch offices and agents how the west was buying automobiles—a seeming contradiction of the farm cry of distress.
Then there was Harvey Firestone, Jr., interested in tires which business reflects the growth in purchasing power of the nation. Julius Rosenwald, head of Sears, Roebuck and Co., knows the mail order business and what it shows with reference to buying tendencies of the people. If the mail order house-es are doing a large volume of business, it is assumed that the country is getting along very well indeed.

Men like A. J. Brosseau, head of Mack Trucks, Inc., and E. P. Charlton, vice-president of the F. W. Woolworth Co., know the trend of business because of their numerous contacts.
All these and other callers familiar with the business situation issued generally optimistic statements. They did not, of course, say what they did for political reasons. They believe in the evolution of American business and the remarkable era of summer prosperity which has been witnessed in most lines of business. Mr. Cool-idge's mail is full of testimonials of the same kind. The invitation to a few leaders in business and industry to come to visit the president and thus give the newspapermen on the docket their views was a bit of political advice and strategy.

LEADERS ARE CONFIDENT

The president, however, welcomed the opportunity further to stimulate business by demonstrating the degree of confidence in the future possessed by certain leaders with whom he conferred.

Men like Louis Liggett of the United Drug Co., and Herbert J. Tilly, managing director of the National Retail Dry Goods association, have means of getting reports on the upward or downward curve in business and they unhesitatingly gave their information including details of those spots where business conditions are not so favorable.

Various farm leaders came to the president's summer camp as well as labor leaders. The idea in this was not to confine the calling list to any one class.

YOUTH ADMITS TO POLICE HE KILLED GIRL

Wants Life Term at Waupun for Shooting Fiancee in Waukesha-co

Milwaukee—(AP)—Knuth Nicholson, 20, Monday faced the possibility that he may spend the rest of his life in states prison—a wish he expressed Sunday when he confessed, according to the sheriff, that he had slain his 19-year old fiancee to cover up a lie.

Nicholson walked into the sheriff's office early Sunday and announced he had shot and killed Grace Stoddard, 19, and after contemplating suicide decided it was the cowardly way out.

WANTS LIFE SENTENCE

"I figured that if I came down and gave myself up that I would be sent to Waupun for life and would get what was coming to me there," declared the youth.

Nicholson told Deputy Sheriff Max
Brunner that he had told his fiancee that he had $800 in the bank. "I wanted to marry her," he said, "but could not bear to have her know that I had lied to her. Friday I came to the conclusion that the only way out was to kill us both."

The deputy sheriff found the girl's body in the car—a bullet wound in the head. A revolver lay nearby.

Upon the confession of Nicholson that he had killed the girl on a lonely stretch of road in Waukesha-co, he was turned over to authorities there.

U. S. MOVES TO HELP FLORIDA

Coolidge Promises Aid to Stricken Inhabitants of Coast Cities

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—President
Coolidge Monday appealed to the American people to come to the assistance of sufferers in the Florida disaster.

In a presidential proclamation he asked that contributions to a relief fund be sent to the American Red Cross.

He promised that the federal government would render "such assistance as is within the means of the executive departments."

Meanwhile several agencies of the government already were at work to provide relief. Eight coast guard ships were ordered to Miami. Postmasters in Florida were authorized to do whatever they could for sufferers, army officers in the state were ordered to cooperate in every way with relief workers, and Florida Naval reservists were called to active duty and sent into the disaster zone. The Red Cross was concentrating in southern Florida its most efficient relief personnel and the best available equipment. National headquarters itself made an initial contribution of $100,- 000 to the relief fund.

STORM MOVES TO ALABAMA; LITTLE DAMAGE REPORTED

Mobile, Ala. (Via telephone to Hattiesburg, Miss.) (AP)—With the wind at 56 miles an hour at 12:30 Monday afternoon and the barometer registering 29.06, Mobile and vicinity found itself in the midst of the hardest part of the hurricane.

Thus far no lives have been reported lost, only minor injuries have been sustained and the property damage was confined chiefly to broken plate glass windows and signs. The winds coming from the northeast carried the waters of the Alabama river and of Mobile bay from the city. The waters of both are low and no danger is expected from either.

Five days preparation found the city as well prepared to withstand the hurricane as possible.

Wife in Pennsylvania

Stroudsburg, Pa.—(AP)—Withdrawal of his suit for divorce was entered on the records of the Monroe-co common pleas court Monday by Richard Washburn Child, former American ambassador to Italy.

Announcement of the withdrawal of the suit, which was started here June 26, was made at a conference between attorneys for Mr. and Mrs. Child.
They gave out the following statement:

"Mr. Richard Washburn Child withdrew his suit for divorce against Mrs. Maud Parker Child in the court of common pleas of Monroe-co, Pa.
The complaint alleged mental cruelty.
Mrs. Child never was personally served."

IOWA FLOOD DAMAGE IS ESTIMATED AT $5,000,000

Des Moines, Ia.—(AP)—Railroad companies and individual property owners of Iowa Monday took stock of flood damage caused by a score of overflowing streams and estimated as high as $5,000,000. Upwards of 50, 000 acres to lowland in the northwestern central and southeastern parts of the state are under water are numerous bridges have swept away, long stretches of railroad track have been washed out or put out of commission by inundation and terminal line service halted.

Troops Sent To Prevent Looting In Florida Area

West Palm Beach, Fla.—(AP)—Loot-ing broke out in the Negro section Sunday night. Seven suspects were arrested. Three hundred special policemen were sworn in for voluntary duty and martial law was ordered.
At Hollywood, 200 special officers were added to the patrol force.

Cutting a path from Miami north to Fort Lauderdale, the hurricane attained a velocity of 120 miles an hour leaving wreckage in its wake. It raged across the Everglades and passed into the gulf of Mexico with only slightly diminished intensity.
The west coast was not damaged seriously. Fort Myers bore the brunt of the storm on the west coast.

APPLETON PEOPLE ESCAPE INJURIES IN FLORIDA STORM

As far as could be determined up to Monday noon no Appleton person suffered in the Florida hurricane.

Telegraph companies reported several messages sent and received to and from points in the devastated area, but all indicated that none from this vicinity was injured nor are suffering.

Mrs. Charles Baldwin, 707 S.
State-st., was the recipient of a telegram from a sister, Mrs. J. B.
Arp, who with her husband and 9 children lives at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., stating that the family had escaped injury and that the worst of the storm apparently passed that city.

The message was received here shortly after 9 o'clock Monday morning and contained no further information, Mrs. Baldwin said.

REBUILD PIPE LINE

Reconstruction of the $20,000 pipe line, dynamited Friday night to save the White River power dam from collapsing and the village of Odanah from being wiped out by flooding, will start at once, it was announced Monday.
The water rose steadily in the river at Odanah until early Sunday morning overflowing the banks in places and washing away many cords of pulp wood but homes were not damaged.

BULLETIN

New Orleans, La.—A.
P.—All telegraph and telephone communication between New Orleans and Mobile was severed shortly before noon Monday. The tropical radio telegraph company reported a short time later that its station at Mobile reported a hundred mile gale at 10 o'clock with the barometer down to 29.05.

Miami—A. P.—Estimated ranging from 600 to 1,500 dead prevailed in the Miami disaster area Monday morning as first contact with the outside world was established by airplane, automobile and relief trains. The damage was estimated at $150,000,000.

In the Miami storm disaster area are included Hollywood, Fort Lauderdale, Red Lands, Moorehaven and Clewiston. Little contact with these places had been established as the cause-ways were flooded and wreckage and high water barred traffic.
Because of continued severe winds, pilots of aeroplanes were reported as wary of attempting to enter the storm area.

Airplanes could not locate any landing places and seaplanes feared the rough and debris filled water. The American Red Cross had established relief stations throughout the stricken area and the aid of nearby towns and cities was offered.

200 CHILDREN SEEK PARENTS

Efforts were being made to locate the relatives of more than 200 children who have been found wandering about what remains of Miami, separated from their families.

Miami was under martial law and none expect government or state officials, newspaper men and persons performing missions of relief were allowed to enter.

Scores of automobiles were leaving here hourly with refugees, for the most part families with children for whose health there was concern, due to the scarcity of milk and the lack of proper sanitary facilities.

Identification of the dead in the various sections was proceeding slowly as search continued for additional bodies. City Manager F. H. Wharton of Miami, has ordered all persons from the city's streets unless they are in search of missing relatives. at

NEW VALUES IN COUNTY CALLED FINAL

Hearing Here Merely "Gesture of Decency" Chairman Says

"We are not going to put the county to the expense of another revaluation unless the courts say that the one recently completed is wrong," Judge C. A. Rosa, chairman of the Wisconsin Tax commission, said Monday morning after two hours had been spent in open debate at an informal protest hearing against figures submitted to the commission as true values of Outagamie county real estate and personal property.

The meeting, held in the circuit court room at the courthouse, was called for the purpose of allowing citizens, towns and villages, to question the findings of 11 assessors who revalued the county under direction of Pearce Tomkins, member of the state tax body.

JUST A GESTURE
This meeting was merely a gesture of decency on the part of the commission in wishing to give everyone a clear understanding of how the revaluations were determined by Mr. Tomkins and his men and the figures will be certified," Judge Rosa declared.

About 50 persons, the majority of them town chairmen and attorneys representing the protesting element, attended the hearing.

Mr. Tomkins spoke at considerable length in explaining in minute detail every step taken by the assessors in arriving at true values as submitted to the commission.

EXPLAINED PROCEDURE
Mode of procedure was to take 25 per cent of the area and property holdings of each community, assess them carefully and thus establish a ratio quotient by which the totals for each town, city and village, were established he pointed out.

THREATEN SUIT
Mayor Albert C. Rule protested vigorously in behalf of Appleton tax payers and at adjournment it was indicated that the city will take the matter up to the Dane county circuit court, an original action against the findings of the commission.

This method offers the only alternative unless the protesting element decides to accept the figures as they will be returned to the county board of supervisors.

Attorney Leo Fox represented the towns which filed the protest against the equalization figures last year.

COUNCIL WILL ACT
Concerning Appleton specifically, Mr. Boser said the subject of making further appeal will have to be taken before the city council for action. The increase for the city is virtually 5 per cent.

In the event of suit against the commission the attorney general's office would be called into the case to represent the tax body, it was stated.

The gathering was so informed in nature that an official record was not kept of the proceedings.

"The object of this assembly," Mr. Tomkins declared, "was merely to give every person interested a chance to air their views and grievances in an effort to forestall any additional expense and to clarify in every taxpayer's mind the routine work attempted in assembling the final figures."

Other business of the commission required the immediate return to Madison of the commissioners so the meeting was adjourned shortly after noon.

"I like you men and am certainly enjoying your debates but as we are getting nowhere in the general discussion and Mr. Tomkins and myself must return to headquarters it is necessary to bring the hearing to a close," Judge Rosa asserted at noon.

"Mr. Tomkins has tried in every way to explain how his men did the actual work. We can do nothing more than accept the figures of trusted assessors and return them as correct in the best of the commission's judgment to your county board."

Policemen's Friendship Heritage Of All "Kids"

Don't frighten children by holding over them the threat that "a policeman will get you" or that a police officer will be called if minor home disciplinary measures fail of results, is advice to parents from the police department.

The Appleton policeman stands ready at any time to defend the "kids on de block," and he is not an ogre whose chief aim and delight in life is to frighten youngsters, Chief George T. Prim declared.

It would be for better if parents would instruct children that when in difficulties of any nature the best thing to do is "tell the policeman," not avoid him.

Probably many an accident could be averted each year if children were taught at home and school to respect the department to the extent of asking an officer to assist them across the street when confused, police believe.

The majority of the local force are family men with the same problems to meet as other citizens and do not appreciate being elected to an imaginary "honorary" membership in a mythical "spankers' union."

Educators and sociologists throughout the world have agreed that teaching children to respect and not fear the police uniform serves as a crime deterrent of considerable importance.

Continually threatening a child with police interference quite logically breeds a condition of mind in the growing boy or girl where they soon begin to view officials as their enemies rather than friends; thus, it is pointed out, has the effect on the adolescent mind of making outwitting the patrolman on the beat more of a game than an offense until minor misdemeanors may grow into actual crimes.

tempting to identify the dead or are assisting in relief work.

Relief trains from West Palm Beach have arrived bringing additional physicians, trained nurses, medical supplies and essential foods.

Profiteering has been banned under a proclamation that provides that no prices may be charged in excess of those prevailing Sept. 18, the day following the storm. Violators will suffer confiscation of their supplies, a heavy fine and imprisonment.

Steadily mounting figures on the toll of the West Indian hurricane in southeastern Florida placed the dead at more than 1,000 and property damage in excess of $125,000,000.

The dead in Miami was estimated at 500, with 250 victims listed at Hollywood and 154 at Hialeah, both suburbs of Miami. One hundred were believed to have been killed at Ft. Lauderdale and a similar number at Moorehaven, where the wind whipped huge waves over the lake Okeechobee dikes flooding the city. Forty of those reported drowned were women and children.

2,000 INJURED—ESTIMATE
The injured toll was placed at 2,000 with more than 35,000 homeless.

Three hundred special police were sworn in at Miami where looting was reported, and 200 at Hollywood.

Public utilities were disabled throughout the storm swept district and search for victims were carried on by candle light.

An appeal was made by the sheriff at Miami for Governor Martin's aid in obtaining 600 coffins.

Temporary morgues and hospitals were established to care for the victims. Special trains rushed medical aid and supplies into the stricken area.

$1,000,000 BUILDING DOWN
Meyer Kleer Building costing $1,000,000 was the only large structure believed seriously damaged in Miami, although virtually all buildings bore marks from the hurricane.

The grand stand of the Miami Jockey club and of the Miami Kennel club were razed.

Raging on the east coast for where it attained an estimated velocity of 120 miles an hour, the hurricane swept across the Everglades to the west coast where it passed into the gulf of Mexico at a velocity of between 75 and 80 miles and hour. The west coast escaped serious damage.

OTT TO ADDRESS SCHOOL MEETING ON ADVANCEMENT

Noted Educator to Outline Method of Producing Convincing Speakers

Dr. Edward Amherst Ott, educator from Ithaca, N. Y., who spoke at the dedication of Roosevelt and Wilson Junior high schools last year, will be one of the chief speakers at the annual meeting of the Northeastern Teachers association in Oshkosh on Friday, Oct. 8, according to the program of the meetings announced Thursday morning. Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools in Appleton will preside at the meetings as president of the association.

The Victorious Advance and Personality and Vocation will be the subjects of Ott's addresses at the general sessions. The latter was the talk given at the dedication services. In the public speaking session he will speak on How to Develop Convincing Speakers, and in the junior high school and grammar grade sessions, he will use as his subject, The Technique of Character Building. Dr. Ott has become well known as a sincere and able speaker on the chautauqua platform and is known throughout the country for his ability in the field of educational research.

The program for the sectional meetings of the association were arranged by the chairmen with the assistance of the president. General sessions will be held on Friday morning and evening, and sectional meetings and conferences on Friday morning and afternoon. Some of the foremost educators of the country will be among the speakers at the meetings.

Dr. Patty Smith Hill, Teachers college, Columbia university, New York, the most famous of kindergarten workers in the country, will speak and lead a discussion on What Course of Study for Kindergarten and First Grade? at the meeting of kindergarten and primary teachers. Miss Maye Holmberg of Appleton, will act as chairman of this group.

Another famous educator, Dr. Frank L. Clapp, College of Education, University of Wisconsin, Madison, will be present at the convention and will speak on The Profession of Teaching at the general session and Some Definite Objectives for Intermediate Arithmetic and How to Accomplish Them, at the intermediate sectional group. Dr. Clapp has done research work in arithmetic and teacher's grading methods.

Chairmen of the sectional groups include several Appleton teachers: Frank Younger, principal of the McKinley junior high school, will have charge of the junior high school and grammar grades group; Miss Elsie Koppin, teacher at the Roosevelt Junior high school, will be chairman of the foreign language group; Dr. Earl L. Baker, supervisor of public school music, will be chairman of the music group and will also speak on the Non-Sustained Child at that session; Miss Holmberg will head the kindergarten and primary group; and A. G. Meating, superintendent of Outagamie county, will have charge of the rural group.

Miss Winifred Fehrenkamp, formerly librarian of Lawrence college and now of Columbia university will speak on The Libraries of Northwestern Europe at the library sectional meeting; Miss Blanche McCarty, of the history department of Appleton high school, also will speak at this meeting on What the Class Room Teacher Can Expect from the Library.

H. L. Post, superintendent of the Pettibone-Peabody company, will be one of the speakers in the commercial section on The Place of Salesmanship Training in a Commercial Course.

Speakers on the program from Lawrence college are: Prof. A. L. Franzke on High School Debating in the public speaking group; Prof. G. C. Cast on Who Should Study Foreign Language in High School and Prof. L. C. Baker on Objectives in Foreign Language; Dr. Henry M. Weston, president of the National College Expects of the High School in the superintendents and principals meetings; Dr. A. A. Trever on Living History in High School; and Prof. James L. Mursell on Modern Psychology and Pedagogy Applied to School Music Teaching.

Other speakers from the public school system are: Miss Alma Bohlmann of the mathematics department of the Wilson junior high school on How to Teach Mathematics in the Way It Will Be Used; H. H. Hebble, principal of the senior high school, on Some Uses and Abuses of Tests in the educational tests and measurements group; Miss Kathleen Kimball, principal of the Lincoln school will lead a discussion on geography in that section; Miss Carrie E. Morgan, assistant superintendent of schools, on Some Practical Devices for Correcting Poor English; and R. G. Grant, instructor in manual arts at Appleton high school, on Teaching Manual Arts in the industrial and vocational education section.

There will be 21 sectional group meetings: agriculture, library, science, commercial, public speaking, intermediate, junior high school and grammar grades, foreign language, mathematics, superintendents and principals, history, special education, educational tests and measurements, geography, music, home economics, physical education, English, industrial and vocational education, kindergarten and primary and rural.

Miss Dorothea Toonen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Toonen, 539 E. McKinley-st., is confined to St. Mary hospital at Oshkosh with a severe case of diabetes.

G. L. Smith was a business visitor at Manitowoc Thursday.

Harwood, preferred claims; Wilhelmina Nass, general claims; Amanda J. Reynolds, general claims; Carlos M. Brainard, general claims; Walter A. Dartman, general claims; and hearing on final accounts in the estate of Paul R. Steiner.

DRYS SEE GAINS FOR THEIR CAUSE IN LEGISLATURE

Prohibition Paper Thinks Lawmakers More Partial to Law Enforcement

Madison.—(P)—The next legislature, on the basis of early primary returns, "is likely to be more favorable to prohibition enforcement than the last," says the Campaigner, local dry publication, in its September issue.

"At least, it will be no wetter," the paper comments. "There will be little if any change in the complexion of the senate," it says. "R. B. Johnson of Douglas-co will succeed Marcus Kemp in the eleventh district. George Blanchard of Edgerton will succeed A. E. Carey in the Fifteenth (Rock-co). C. W. Hutchinson of Mineral Point gets Johnson's place in the Seventeenth. Herman J. Severson will be returned from the Twenty-third and it is said will be Governor Zimmerman's floor leader in the upper house. Robert Caldwell of Lodi apparently has won the nomination in the Twenty-seventh district. C. E. Casperson of the Twentieth district was returned without opposition. Howard Tensdale of Sparta is renominated by a very close margin over his two opponents, Clinton E. Price and John A. Conant. The above nominee may be counted on for support of dry measures.

"Merritt F. White of Winnebago, wet leader, was renominated over Julius Dennhardt in the Nineteenth district. Herman Belgren of Dodge-co, has been defeated for renomination, but his successful opponent probably also is wet. Dr. J. L. Barber of Marathon, another wet leader and Blaine supporter, has been defeated, although his successful opponent is undoubtedly wet. John C. Schumann of Watertown, moderately wet, was renominated in the Thirty-third district.

"Dry assemblymen who have been renominated according to reports received thus far are: E. R. Cashman, Richland; Harry W. Davies, Waushara; Earl D. Hall, Monroe; James C. Hanson, Dane; 2nd: A. A. Hucklestead, Clark; John H. Kamper, Racine; 3rd: Carl Koenig, Sauk; Nels Larson, Winnebago; 2nd: Frank E. Lawson, Walworth; Dr. A. J. McDowell, of Crawford; J. D. Millar, Dunn; A. C. Schultz, Tusk and Sawyer; Conrad Shearer and D. J. Vincent, Kenosha; A. E. Smith, Vernon; R. B. Wood, Adams and Marquette.

"Among new members who will be safely dry are: John S. Baker and F. G. Smith, Rock; A. J. Baker, Dane; 2nd: J. D. Grandino, Florence, Forest and Oneida (a former member); John F. Jackson, Iowa; R. M. Graham, St. Croix (who defeated E. E. Minier); A. A. Teller, Juneau."

The Campaigner says that "a movement is under way to bring out an independent candidate" against Representative H. H. Peavey, who was

Local Man Says Dreco Woke His Liver Up From A Four Year Nap

Stewart at Elks Club feels fine since this important organ is now working regularly.

"For the past four or five years my liver has been fast asleep and nothing I took seemed able to wake it up," said Mr. Roy E. Keiser, steward at the Elks Club, Appleton & Lawrence St. this city in a recent talk with the Dreco man at Schlitz Bros. Drug Store.

"During this time I suffered greatly from constipation, indigestion, headaches and other complaints caused by a sluggish liver. My tongue was almost perfectly white. I had a stale, nasty taste in my mouth and my breath was so objectionable I was ashamed of it. I always felt tired and drowsy no matter how much sleep I got and my stomach seemed bloated and heavy all the time.

CONFERENCE ON SOCIAL WORK IS SET IN OCTOBER

Three Appleton Persons Are on Committees for Milwaukee Meeting

A conference on civic, social and municipal problems of the state will be held at Milwaukee Oct. 3, 4, 5 and 6 under auspices of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work and the Milwaukee Central Council of Social Agencies. An announcement of the conference from Aubrey W. Williams, Madison, secretary of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work, the same organization which conducted the Better Cities contest last year.

Citizens from all parts of the state, including a number from Appleton, will attend. Ways and means of securing better government, reducing delinquency and crime, of providing more adequate care of dependent and neglected children, and of securing more wholesome forms of recreation, will be discussed.

The conference will cover community health, mental hygiene, delinquency, financing welfare work, mothers' pensions, municipal government, city planning, problem children, recreation, boys work, rural social work, child care, women and children in industry, unemployment, and crippled children and disabled adults.

Men and women, authorities in the various fields of economic, civic and social work, have accepted invitations to be present and take part in the discussion. Citizen leaders from all parts of Wisconsin will gather to compare their actual experiences in the problems that today confront communities in Wisconsin, the notice says.

Methods and programs used by communities in the work of securing playgrounds, special class rooms for exceptional children, scientific family welfare work, zoning and financing of social work, also will be brought out.

A fee of $2 to help defray the cost of the conference will be required of every attendant, it is announced. All persons interested in the community problems mentioned above are invited to attend.

Appleton persons serving on committees of the conference are T. E. Orsison, Prof. Louis Boettiger and G. R. Shaefer. Mr. Orsison is on a committee on community organization. Professor Boettiger is a member of a mental hygiene committee, and Mr. Shaefer is on a rural work committee. Mr. Orsison also will present a talk on Organizing the Community for Financing Social Work.

EVERYTHING IS "GRIST" FOR CITY WEIGHMASTER

Everything from logs to hogs are weighed on the city scales, at the Public Service building on N. Walnut-st., according to Alex Rabcieau, who is in charge of the building. From 50 to 200 people use the scales every week and as many as 25 a day make use of the service.

Hay is probably the one material that is weighed and almost daily, while coal and rags are a close second. Other articles are, lumber, horses, cattle, hogs and crops of all kinds.

Many people have automobiles weighed preparatory to buying licenses.

good I was mighty slow in trying Dreco but I finally started on it and now I am glad to say my liver is awake and on the job again and I feel fine in every respect. I'm no longer troubled with constipation, headaches, or indigestion, my tongue has cleared up nicely, my breath is O. K. and the foul nasty taste has left my mouth. My appetite has improved, I sleep better and, in fact, feel better in every way."

To those persons who suffer from headaches, gastritis, nervousness, constipation, poor sleep, weak kidneys, lazy liver, a deranged stomach or impure slow, flowing blood, Dreco will prove a wonder to you. Try it today and see how quick the results will come.

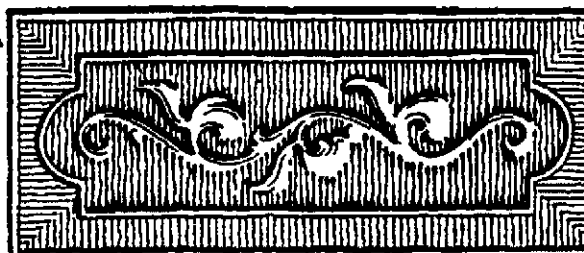

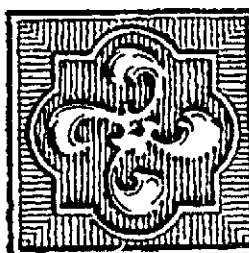

Mr. W. V. Martin, the well-known expert from the Dreco Laboratories now at Schlitz Bros. downtown drug store is telling scores of people every day how to take Dreco for best results. Go to see him.

Your PIANO

Is it one of the little used or silent instruments found in so many homes?

STATISTICS show that only one of every five pianos in the homes of our people is sufficiently used to justify its presence. Is your instrument one of these? If so, have you not often regretted its utter uselessness? Doubtless you are fond of music and many times have wished for more in your home.

The AMPICO

endows the piano containing it with the actual playing of the greatest pianists of the world.

With The AMPICO in your home

—you obtain not only a piano of renowned make but an instrument touched with magic, so that it will play by itself exquisite music of all kinds from the recordings of the artists who have entrusted to its keeping the preservation of their art for all time.

—In place of the ordinary piano, or indifferent player piano, you obtain an instrument so uncannily human that it becomes Rachmaninoff, when Rachmaninoff's recordings are heard, Godowsky when Godowsky plays, Levitzki when hearing the recordings of that youthful genius.

—You bring into your home an incredible wealth of music of all kinds and an element of culture and happiness the value of which cannot be adequately expressed in words.

May we suggest the exchange of your little used or silent piano for this miracle piano? Bring the light and laughter of music into your home. Let its exquisite influence be a part of your family life—for your wife, your children, your friends.

Uprights from $850

All types of pianos and player pianos taken in exchange for the Ampico. Convenient terms of payment.

PROHIBITION NOT AN ISSUE

We think a fair conclusion is that the wet and dry issue has had about the same influence in the fall primaries as the so-called world court issue. There is no reliable data, and certainly no results, on which to base the assumption that prohibition has been a controlling factor in the elections. In some states doubtless it has been a campaign issue, but whether it has actually elected or defeated a candidate, would be impossible to say. Take Wisconsin, for instance, who could, with any degree of accuracy, say that in the recent primary the wet or dry vote determined the outcome? Several out-and-out wet candidates got no vote at all. In other candidacies no one could assert with certainty to what extent the wet and dry vote entered.

Nationally the situation is the same. The wets pick up a nomination here and there, and so do the dries. Prominent wets were defeated and so were prominent dries. As near as can be figured out the next congress will be substantially as the last one so far as a division on prohibition goes. One thing at least seems clear and that is that the supposed national reaction against the Volstead act and in favor of its modification has not manifested itself at the polls. As yet the people are unwilling to let their views on the wet and dry question determine the election of public officials and legislators. The time may come when they will be, but it is not here yet and for that we are fortunate.

PAYING OUR DEBTS

Senator Simmons, ranking Democratic member of the senate finance committee, wishes to have federal taxes reduced by $560,000,000 at the next session of congress, a proposal to which president Coolidge objects. It seems that Mr. Simmons' plan involves postponement for the present of further payments on the national debt. In other words, the Democratic leader would pay only the interest on the $20,000,000,000 that the United States owes and let the principal ride. Up to this time we have been not only paying interest, but substantial sums on the principal. The policy has been to reduce the debt by approximately $300,000,000 by direct appropriation from taxes, while we have also devoted to this purpose payments from foreign debtors, treasury surpluses, etc. Our reductions of the national debt in the last seven years have cut down the interest charge by some $200,000,000.

It seems to us that the judgment of the president is the better and that we should continue our policy of making annual payments on the debt principal. Not to do so means to go on paying tremendous interest charge indefinitely, which is something no private business would think of doing if its earnings netted a surplus that could legitimately be applied to reducing its bonds. To reduce taxes is of course politically popular; it is a good vote getting device, regardless of whether it is good business or not. We should administer our national finances according to sound business principles, and that is what the treasury department has been doing ever since the war. To the extent it has been able to reduce taxes while preserving this policy well and good, and it has reduced them several times. We should not lower federal taxes further at the expense of sound finance. Whenever it can be done through economy and use of increased surplus, it should be done. We think the manner in which the government since the war has handled the nation's finances has been satisfactory to the people, and that they are content to have them administered in the same way in the future.

MR. EDDY, REFORMER
America's political and religious atmosphere is again enriched, or rarefied, by the presence of Mr. Sherwood Eddy, secretary for Asia of the national council of the Y. M. C. A., who has brought his deckload of "investigators" home from Russia with the announcement that they have studied the situation and it will now be all right for the United States to go ahead and recognize the soviets.

Mr. Eddy announces that his junketers are "the first group of Americans to enter Russia to study the political, economic, social and religious conditions to determine the advisability of recognizing the Russian government." Our American senators who have made the trip, our American state department which has had a number of investigators in the field, and our many private economic missions which have entered Russia will like that, Mr. Eddy apparently assumes that our failure to recognize the soviet government to date arises from some lack of the necessary funds to send competent students into Russia, a lack which he has gratuitously relieved out of his own pocket.

We gravely doubt whether the cause of reforming the world has gained greatly by this latest venture of gloomy Sherwood's, whose recent pamphlet on "Danger Zones of the Social Order" missed no opportunity of uncovering flaws in American government and industry, but who in Russia can see nothing but good. This discrepancy is too grotesque for Mr. Eddy to be taken seriously. Americans still retain a belief that there is some relation between material comfort and convenience and the mental and spiritual progress of human life. They will believe in the necessity, which Russia has thrown over, of encouraging individual ambition. They know that of America's eleven thousand millionaires a goodly majority have risen from want or small incomes, that millions of American working men have cars and homes of which the average Russian has never dreamed, and that the Communist doctrine Mr. Eddy loves so well has little hopes of making progress in this country.

They have, moreover as little faith as President Coolidge in the trustworthiness of the present soviet regime. The president says he will not recognize Russia until it has a government which would justify the United States in advising its people to make business commitments there with the promise of federal support. Mr. Eddy's little handpicked group of enthusiasts will have trouble overcoming the sales resistance already existing against his notions, particularly since he committed the grievous tactical error of attacking his own country before the Russians. He returns to discover that a number of Y. M. C. A. units throughout the country, have disowned him for that grave mistake. His authority is undermined and weakened even as he presents his report.

TODAY'S POEM
By HAL COCHRAN

It's kinda strange, but the scenes do change as the seasons swing about. The bright wears down and the dark comes 'round, when the summer's fading out.
The blossoms fair that perfume the air hang their heads as the days grow chill. The stems bend low. Nature lets them go in the frost that comes to kill.
The atmosphere doesn't seem so clear. There are heavy clouds on high. You can feel the call of the coming fall, when the summer's passin' by.
It's the brist and keen air that kills the green. Makes the great outdoors seem dead. Things that once were bright, sorta drift from sight. There's a somberness instead.
Yea, we bid goodby, an' we sorta sigh, but the future's not so black. We can always know that, though summers go, they are always coming back.
Don't read by a dim light. It ruins your eyes. A movie man says bathing revues will be in the nude by 1935.
You can blame the modern girl all you please, but you never see her on the street with her face bare.
The birds should build in the fall when they could use many straw hats without even altering them.
Be careful with matches in the woods now. Farmers didn't raise their trees to be a forest fire.
Coming from good people isn't half so important as going with good people.
A man could play poker all night long on what a woman blows in for just a fall hat.
A wealthy young clubman in Detroit is the hi-jacker.
The honeymoon is over when he blames her for the weather.
There as those foolish enough to think you are foolish.
They seem to average about twenty miles to the gallon or sixty miles an hour to the pint.
Weekly attendance at movies is ninety million, which is a lot of dirty dishes in the sink.
The geese are flying south for the winter. Look out. Some of them are desperate drivers.
If your alarm clock is broken tie a string around your finger to remind you to get up.

Health Talks

SHALL WE LOWER THE STANDARD
A few months ago I confessed here that I had changed my mind about (a) the cropping of the hair of women, and (b) the participation of high school girls in public basketball games. It seems that in an old moment I had sort of worried that the mutilation was almost immoral and that the participation in the basketball game tended to make a girl too bold. Soon afterward a correspondent who called himself "Jim" suggested that I hadn't changed my mind at all; I thought I had just lowered my standard. "Jim" and his argument: remind me of a barberry thorn; it got under my skin, all right. But I still maintain that I have actually changed my mind on these two points, and I do not believe I have lowered my standard.
We still have with us the "double standard" of morals, although it may not be so barefaced as it was a generation ago. A young man may still break a moral law without suffering the loss of his reputation; a young woman may not.
It does seem that we are moving toward a single standard and getting farther away from the double standard in recent years. But this single standard, which we seem to approach is a lowered standard, not the old ideal single standard at all. Where there is so much smoke there is usually some fire; all the talk about flapperism, the wild ways of modern youth and so on has some sound foundation. Nevertheless the same old double standard on which our fathers and grandfathers based their out-crowd prevails today. The young man of 1926 still "settles down" after a more or less lurid stilling and when he "settles down" he expects to find himself a wife as pure as a man's children's mother ought to be. Some of the sad wrecks in our crowded divorce courts indicate that—the single standard isn't what she used to be.
However, in spite of everything there are still plenty of good women in the world, and as a matter of honor and chivalry the man who marries a good woman is in duty bound to present evidence of his fitness to marry.
No matter who the man may be or what his social standing, the double standard of morals under which he lives places upon him the onus of handing a certificate of health to the woman's parent or guardian when he seeks consent to an engagement.
This certificate should be given by a physician whose professional standing is known to the parent or guardian, and it is reasonable though not infallible evidence that the prospective bridegroom has no communicable disease. By a suit or excuse himself from this obligation. And by no argument can a parent or guardian of a young woman today excuse himself or herself from assuring a daughter or ward this measure of safety, health and happiness.
I say such a certificate is reasonable though not infallible evidence that the man has no communicable disease.
Likewise, I think, a parent or guardian should suspect any man who fails to present such a certificate at the time he broaches the matter of an engagement, and withhold consent until proper information is forthcoming.
If we ever do adopt a single standard of morals, be it high or low, it will be fair enough to demand such a certificate from the prospective bridegroom. It is present no man could gallantly take a certified bride.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
What a Superstition Weighs.
Here is an authoritative presentation of the status of the "common cold" mystery. I thought it would relieve your anxiety to know that science has found a promising clew to it. (P. E. W.)
Answer.—The newspaper item informs us that "medical authorities are not quite agreed as to the bacterial origin of the disease. Evidence is still being collected and weighed." How the heck they weigh it is more than I can conceive. It must be about as difficult as weighing ectoplasm. But the item is correct about medical authorities—they're not only not quite agreed but no two authorities will coincide on what an alleged "common cold" is. (Copyright John F. Dille company.)

Q. How much of our population is over-weight? C. M.
A. Dr. Lulu Peters says that three-fourths of the population of this country is overweight.

Q. As a country do we import many valuable objects of art? H. H. D.
A. It is estimated that we import about $40,000,000 worth of art treasures annually.

Q. Please explain the twinkling of stars. D. M.
A. The twinkling of stars is a rapid shaking or vibration of their light caused mainly by the turmoil of the atmosphere—currents and strata of different temperatures intermingling and flowing past one another. A star's light seems to come from a mere point, so that when its rays are scattered by irregular refraction, one instant very few rays reach the eye, and at another many. This accounts for the seeming changes of brightness in a twinkling star. Ordinarily the bright planets are not seen to twinkle, because of their large apparent disks, made up of a multitude of general average of brightness.

Q. What are "petrified kidneys"? C. D. E.
A. This is an English expression and refers to kidney-like cobbles when used for paving.

Q. How much money does the national treasury have? P. O. E.
A. Last year the sum of $710,373 was deposited with the Treasurer of the United States. Other receipts of the nationalization Bureau brought the total up to $743,836.54, while the expense of administration was $785,352.00, which made an excess of $43,015.46 in expenditures over revenues.

Q. Is Walter Camp dead? P. F.
A. This widely known authority on football died on March 14, 1926, at the age of 65.

Q. Who owns Craigmillar Castle in Scotland? B. T. C.
A. Craigmillar Castle, near Edinburgh, Scotland, passed into the hands of the Gilmour family during the 17th century. It was later restored by Col. Gilmour.

Q. What tributary of the Mississippi is the farthest south? T. F. C.
A. The Red River is the southernmost of the large tributaries of the Mississippi. Its headwaters include several forks all of which originate in northern Texas. The main stream flows east, forming the boundary between Texas and Oklahoma until it enters Arkansas, where it turns to the south and, entering Louisiana, traverses the State in a southeasterly direction to its junction with the Mississippi, 341 miles above the mouth of the latter.

THE PUBLIC MAN AS A WRITER OF FICTION

It seems rather strange that not more persons in public life in America are making use of their undoubted opportunities to transmute their experiences into fiction. In the case of nine out of ten public men the fact unquestionably is that they are not competent to write fiction. No matter how much anyone may for instance admire President Coolidge as a statesman, one is perfectly safe in the assertion that in spite of his opportunities to study life at, first hand, the president is incapable of achieving even a fifth or tenth rate work of fiction. And the same thing is true of nearly all of our presidents and senators and congressmen.
But granting that for most men in public life, it yet seems strange that the proportion who can write fiction is as small as it is. It is small in other countries also but not as small as in America. In other countries persons sometimes rise to power who have made a mark in the arts. An American reputation as a novelist would undoubtedly be a liability for a man who wished to win public life.

FEW OFFICIALS WRITE

In England there is the outstanding case of Disraeli who wrote at least competent, if not great, novels at the very time that he was serving as prime minister. In France, Clemenceau was almost as distinguished in fiction as in politics. In America there are few cases of that kind. John Hay once wrote a novel, "The Breadwinners," but he kept it a dark secret until his death. Knowing full well that it would hurt his political career. In view of all this it is extremely interesting that there is at least one man in the United States congress who makes fiction writing a kind of second career. His name is William N. Valle and he represents a district in Denver, Colo. He makes no secret of his fiction writing and offers no apologies for it. He publishes his books under his own name and he does not try to make his position as a congressman boost his books. Nothing is said about his position on the title page. The book is printed like any other story and competes with other books on its own merit.

VAILE HAS MATERIAL

There is the case, of course, of Brand Whitlock, the outstanding example of a public man in America who is also a writer of fiction and a writer of unusual ability that may fairly be compared with the quality of such a man as Disraeli, Whitlock however seemed to be in public life only as a kind of makeshift and he went to Belgium avowedly not to be a statesman but a novelist. A little plan that the war knocked into a cocked hat.
Congressman Valle seems to have plenty of material for the type of books he is writing. In a newspaper interview he tells a number of anecdotes of real life happenings in his home district so strange that he says he does not dare put them into a book for fear he will not be believed. Perhaps his writing of mystery stories is good training for him so that later he can give a genuine political novel much needed in American fiction.

Noted Men Will Talk To Women

The annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Episcopal church of the Fond du Lac diocese will be held Wednesday and Thursday at Rhinelander. A conference of the bishop, clergy and two laymen from each church in the diocese to confer on missionary questions will be held in connection with the convention.

The Rev. Henry S. Gately, pastor of All Saints Episcopal church in this city and two wardens, F. A. W. Hammond and Seymour Gmelin will represent the local church at the convention. Mrs. L. H. Moore and Mrs. R. K. Wolter, who were appointed delegates from the local Missionary society will be unable to attend. It is probable that Mrs. Gately will accompany Mr. Gately to the convention.

The Rev. B. T. Kemmerer, a member of the National council of the Episcopal church will give several addresses. Among the other speakers will be the Rev. Harwood Sturtevant of Racine and C. F. Alden, president of the Manufacturers National bank of Racine. Other addresses will be given by clergymen of the diocese, Bishop Weller of Fond du Lac is to preside at all meetings.

MANY ATTEND JOINT PICNIC OF CATHOLICS

TEAS OPEN RUSHING BY SORORITIES

Formal rushing of freshman girls by Lawrence college sororities started Monday afternoon when each group entertained at teas at houses of partonesses and friends of the sororities. About 50 guests were expected at each affair. Other smaller functions have been planned for the following four days of this week, and these will be followed by a two days truce when sorority girls may have no communication with freshmen girls. This period is planned as a time the new girls may think about and decide which group they would like to join, according to Miss Winifred West, president of the local Pan-Hellenic association, a representative body of each sorority.

The Monday afternoon teas were to be given at the following homes: Kappa Delta, Mrs. A. E. Rector, S. Meade-st.; Kappa Alpha Theta, Mrs. G. W. Thom, N. CHURCH SOCIETIES

The Christian Mothers society of Sacred Heart church held its regular monthly business meeting Sunday afternoon in the school hall. Regular business was discussed.

The first meeting of the season of Chi Tau Upsilon of Memorial Presbyterian church will be held at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Margaret Ritchie, 845 E. College-ave. A supper will be served followed by a short business meeting and social.

The Brotherhood of First English Lutheran church will hold its first meeting of the season at 7:45 Tuesday evening at the church. Regular business and a program for the year will be discussed.

The church cabinet of First Congregational church will have a meeting Tuesday evening at the church. A supper will be served at 6:30 after which representatives of each department of the church will give a report on plans for the season's work.

LEGIONAIRES TO TALK OVER FALL PROGRAM

Plans made by the executive committee of Oney Johnston post of the American Legion last week will be presented to the post for approval at its first fall meeting at 8 o'clock Monday evening at Elk club. These will include a membership drive from Nov. 1 to Nov. 11, ending with a combined membership jubilee and armistice celebration. Another plan is to hold a prohibition debate between two noted speakers here in the near future.

A discussion of a change in the meeting night so that members of the Legion saxophone band can attend also will take place. The band members also are in the 120th Field artillery band which practices on Monday evening. Edgar Schonamer will be in charge of a program at the meeting and Harold Kunert will head the "feed" committee.

Herman Wilkinson of Evanston, Ill. spent Wednesday and Thursday in Appleton on business.

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE?

If some good fairy should appear, as they did in the old fairy tales and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose?

Wealth? It's a transient thing that brings its own cares.

Happiness? It's an elusive thing which we keep by giving away.

Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy, and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you this priceless gift of better health.

EASTERN STARS MEET WEDNESDAY FOR OBLIGATION

Fidelity chapter, Order of Eastern Star, will hold its first important ceremony of the fall season Wednesday evening at the Masonic temple when the annual obligation night program will take place. The meeting will open with a supper at 6:30 and the lodge will convene at 7:30. An effort is being made by the committee in charge to have a large attendance as the service is one of the most important of the lodge ceremonies.

The purpose of the ceremony is to have members renew their vows to the lodge. A special program in which every officer of the lodge will have a part will be held. Special music is on the program.

Plans for the annual memorial service in memory of members who have died in the last year will be made. The service will be held in October. Mrs. Cora Treize will be installed as Adah to succeed Miss Florence Torrey, and Miss Evelyn Briesse will be installed as Esther to succeed Babette Marshall Breslau.

Women Tell

Others how this new hygienic pad discards easily as tissue—no laundry

BECAUSE one woman so advises others, and because doctors so urge, most women are deserting the old-time "sanitary pad" for a new and better way.

Eight in 10 better-class women now use "KOTEX."

✓ Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Deodorizes, thus ending ALL danger of offending.

Obtainable at all drug and department stores simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Package of 12 costs only a few cents. Proves old ways a needless risk. In fairness to yourself, try it.

LAHAN FEARS OR FUTURE OF HIGH SCHOOLS

ges New Policy in Financi-ing" and Establishing Schools in Wisconsin

Madison—(AP)—Improvement of the schools of Wisconsin is the aim of John Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction, in formulating a program for supervision and for financial support.

"Wisconsin high schools are passing through the most critical period of their existence," Mr. Callahan declared. "For the first time in the history of our state, taxpayers are seriously contemplating some restriction of educational opportunity for those children who do not live in the larger villages and cities. It is yet to be admitted that neither their thought nor action has, as yet, crystallized into such definite statement as that made above. Nevertheless as analysis of local comments on the tax situation, of arguments made in the committee rooms of the past legislature, and recently enacted educational laws, leads me to believe that the situation is such that only a drastic reorganization of our tax laws affecting schools will prevent the reduction of high school opportunity through the elimination of many of our small high schools."

THREE MEANS OF RELIEF

Three possible sources of financial relief for high schools were listed by Mr. Callahan. They are: A statewide property tax, the state income tax, or tax on "cigarettes and cosmetics."

"The chief causes of the financial distress of our high schools," he said, are:

- "The 55 per cent increase in enrollment during last decade.
- "The doubling of building costs during the same period.
- Cessation of building activities during World War.
- "Increased instructional costs.
- "Increased interest rates on bond issues.
- "Decreased state aids.
- "Differences between tuition revenues and costs of instruction.
- "Small taxing units for high schools.
- "Low property valuation back of each pupil enrolled.
- "Small enrollments in many schools resulting in low pupil teacher ratios.
- "The low ratio of high school area to total area of the state.

"It has been pointed out repeatedly in this study that only a radical change in state fiscal policy for high schools will remedy permanently this acute situation. The high schools of Wisconsin serve the entire state but at the present time their support is almost entirely local.

"The following questions must be answered by those upon whose responsibility is dependent:

- "Should the local taxing unit of high schools be increased in area?
- "What portion of their support should be derived from a state fund?
- "What portion, if any, of their support should be derived from a county fund?

"It has been suggested that the cost of instruction and operation of our high schools be borne jointly by the district, the county, and the state in some such proportion as follows: 50 per cent. local, 30 per cent. county, and 20 per cent. from state funds.

"In considering this suggestion it will be necessary to answer the following questions:

- "Should not the amount of state and county aid each be limited to 30 per cent of the average pupil cost for instruction and maintenance for the state, multiplied by the average number in daily attendance in the high school?

INCREASE RATE?

- "Should the maximum tax rate for counties be increased to include the county support of high schools?
- "Should new high schools receive certificates of establishment unless the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the proposed district is at least $1,000,000?

- "Should steps be taken to aid to the taxing and population units of our present high schools so that they will have a minimum of $1,000,000 taxable property and a high school population of at least 100 pupils?
- "Should all special general state aids now on the statute books be abolished?

- "Should tuition charges be equal to the cost of instruction and maintenance?
- "Should not the portion of the county outside of high school districts be unit for levying all tuition?"

"The high school situation was summarized briefly as follows:

- "The typical Wisconsin high school is a small school enrolling 75 pupils, employing 5 teachers and having a total valuation of $1,000,000. The expenses of instruction for such a school are $8,612 annually. The per capita cost based on average daily attendance is approximately $100. There is a wide range of per capita costs. The chief causes of high per capita cost appear to be: Low enrollments, high pupil-teacher ratios, special courses in small schools, poor organization of high school, losses due to cost of instruction non-resident pupils, small high school areas, small valuation of taxing unit.

"The counties of the state vary tremendously in the percentage of their territory in high school districts. Adams and Shawano counties show the least percentage of high school territory; Sawyer and Ashland counties have the highest. The northern section of the state include more than half the high school area of the state. Less than 20 per cent of the total area of the state lies in high school districts. This small area must under our present taxing policy support the cost of high school education for the entire state."

"Many high schools are offering courses which with their present valuations they cannot afford to carry. There appears to be no relation be-

Forty Women Seek Maids And No Girls Want Jobs

Wanted: Maid for general housework, who will cook, wash, clean, scrub, stay in seven nights a week and take entire care of the children. Wages $7 a week, possibility of advancement to $8. Experience necessary.

Such is the plea of women of Appleton, at least of a great many of them, who want help and cannot find it, according to the requests made at the Appleton Women's club. But there are no such girls, and for that matter there are no girls at all. The factory holds greater charm for the girls in the interim between school and marriage today than does the young matron.

WON'T CHANGE TRAFFIC RULES ON S. CHERRY-ST

The suggestion to abolish left turns at the corner of W. College-ave and S. Cherry-st for traffic going west is not deemed advisable by city officials. It was indicated Friday. A feeling that such a change should be put into effect at this intersection has existed for sometime among a few residents of the city.

A large arrow painted on the pavement directs the path traffic should take in making this turn, it is pointed out.

Those proposing to abolish the left turn at this corner suggest that traffic be held on College-ave until 100 feet west of S. Cherry-st, where it might turn south and return to S. Cherry-st on W. Lawrence-st.

As Cherry-st is now a state highway, it would not be advisable to change any traffic rules in effect there now, it is believed by city officials.

tween the needs of a community and the curriculum offerings of its high school.

"Special courses increase per capita instructional costs of high school enrolling less than 50 pupils but they have no effect upon the cost of large high schools.

"The high school enrollment is a factor of importance in school costs. A high school enrolling approximately 50 pupils can be run economically. Where special courses are added, the high school of 400-500 can be operated more efficiently from a cost standpoint.

"From the viewpoint of educational opportunity the pupils in our small communities are entitled to as rich a high school offering as are those living in the large cities. This cannot be brought about without the addition of taxing and population areas to the small schools and without some readjustment of the school tax system."

Superintendent Callahan announced his statewide program for the improvement of instruction in junior and senior high schools in the current issue of the Wisconsin Journal of Education.

"We need a more definite program of supervision of instruction in Wisconsin Journal of Education.

"We need a more definite program of supervision of instruction in Wisconsin Journal of Education.

He proposes a series of conferences by counties or small groups. Principals, superintendents and high school training teachers will be expected to attend. They will discuss the following program:

Problems, the solution of which is necessary in order to increase the efficiency of teaching.

Sources of waste in present classroom procedure and means for their elimination.

Criteria for judging the merit of class activities.

"A state program of supervision should serve to shorten the experimental stage and to conserve by means and success those elements which prove to be of value," the superintendent said.

with three children, waxed floors and an electrically fitted laundry.

There are many women whose demands are far more reasonable than those who innocently believe that maids should be ambidextrous and should have no social inclinations. And these women are unable to secure help as well as those with greater demands. Household help is not to be had, in the recent experience of the women's club.

So desperate has the situation become for women who have large houses or little children to care for, that they willingly take any maid who is offered. But the independence of the worker who knows that the supply is greater than the demand is constantly being shown, it is said. Girls have no professional ethics in regard to coming to a place when they have promised to appear, neither have they when the desire to emigrate comes. The bag is packed, the maid comes downstairs, "My mother's sick, I've got to go," or perhaps simply, "I'm leaving," but always, "I want my check," whether her sojourn in the house has been for only 12 hours or for a week.

There were 40 names of women on the books in the women's club on Monday. The women who want maids for general housework, and there were no girls applying to fill any of the positions.

MOTHER SECURES SON'S RELEASE

Young Man Set Free When Mother Pays Costs of Court Action

Harry Ritchie, alias Peterson, alias William and M. A. Parker, Ste. Marie, Mich., was turned over to his mother Saturday afternoon when restitution was made and costs settled in a case involving young Ritchie's successful passing of one bad check and his attempt to negotiate another last week.

The youth was arrested by police as he tried to cash the second check. In the first instance he received $5 but this was found on his person when he was arrested and returned to a local business woman who had cashed the check.

When first arrested Ritchie gave the name of Peterson but later admitted his correct name and revealed his mother's address to Chief George T. Prim. A telephone call brought her to the assistance of her son.

Ritchie told police that he had come to Appleton from Chicago by automobile with three companions but had left the party after a disagreement. The checks were drawn on the First National Bank, and signed M. A. Parker to William Parker. Ritchie indorsed each by the former name. There is no corresponding account in the bank so Ritchie escaped having committed forgery. It was pointed out.

BUS OWNER POSTS BAIL THAT HE WILL APPEAR

J. E. Stelmets, Milwaukee, charged in Appleton with operating an automobile bus without a license was arrested at Neenah on Saturday by Chief George T. Prim and brought here to post bail of $20 for his appearance in court. Mr. Stelmets was originally arrested some time ago and released on his own recognizance but failed to appear in municipal court when the case was called. Later he wrote and said he was enclosing a check to pay the fine of $10 and costs. The check, however, was not in the envelope and his arrest at Neenah followed. It is probable that only additional costs will be assessed against the Milwaukee man, Chief Prim said.

Women Unnecessary, Tunney Says As Jack Dempsey Sings Their Praises

BY ALLENE SUMNER

"Women?"

He who was plect by his parents in baptism James J. Tunney toyed with my question in silence a moment or so. His sharp, blue eyes were fixed on the rolling green hills in front of the screened veranda of Glen Brook clubhouse near Stroudsburg, Pa.

"Woman later?" I accused him.

"No," made reply the would-be world heavyweight champ. "I do not exactly follow the belief of Schopenhauer."

"I am no misogynist—" (Pause for time out while I retrieved.) "No, I do not really hate women."

"But I find them quite unnecessary in the cosmic scheme of things."

Masses of men, women and children pressed four deep about the porch where Tunney sat and discussed this world of men, women and things.

Faces poked through the porch palings. As the crowd grew more and more buxom, the crowd fell back a bit. Half this crowd was made up of girls and women who had waited for hours for a glimpse of the fair bachelor of the prize-fighting world.

"Woman to me is mysterious and inscrutable," Mr. Tunney continued his dissertation.

"Aha," said I to myself. "Now I know you. You think you dislike women because you're afraid of them. You don't understand them. So in self-defense you bluff out at the unknown. It is easier to hate than to analyze."

"Women?"

The valet-shed feet of Jack Dempsey, world's ace heavyweight, beat a quicker tattoo upon the rough table which upheld his buxom form in his dressing room at his training camp, the whippet racetrack at Atlantic City.

A devilish wink grinned in Jack's hazel eyes, and he grinned.

"Lady, lady, let me tell you something. To me a woman is the highest handiwork of God. Even what some folks think is a homely girl to me is the most beautiful thing in the world."

"Would you like to live in a world without women?" I demanded.

Jack looked positively terrified for a moment. His feet changed crescent to diminuendo.

"Say, you're a girl," remarked the old resin-sniffer to Miss Sumner.

"Which one would you marry, if it had to be one or the other?"

And in another article tomorrow, Miss Sumner will tell!

"Say, let me tell you, I'd just as soon be dead! Why, I couldn't live, that's all, in a world without girls! They're—why, they're why, I'll tell the cock-eyed world, there's nothing else, almost—"

"Mr. Tunney," I asked that afternoon as we sat in some squeaky old cane rockers on the Stroudsburg club porch, "is there any one woman in the world anywhere, watching your fight in hear that you may lose, praying that you will win?"

"Not one that I know of," came back Mr. Tunney like a shot.

"Except my mother, of course. And you know how mothers are—afraid you'll get injured or something."

And the same question was put to Mr. Jack Dempsey.

"Estelle'll hang on the wire like mad—and I suppose some other girls won't feel bad if I win."

At Stroudsburg—the womanless prize-fighter!

At Atlantic City—the man with his own woman and a bevy of girl admirers and well-wishers!

The prize-fighter who can't see the girls for dust, and the one who loves all the girls of all the world!

These you have them!

"If Tunney wins," an old resin-sniffer said to me, "he will be the first fighter in the world to win without some woman to spur him on!"

"It just can't be done! Remember Ibsen's play, 'The Master Builder'?" (they talk about Ibsen down there in Stroudsburg where a prize-fighter's a fighter and also the world's best book of knowledge)

"You know the one about the guy who worked and worked and got to be a king or something, all because a woman made him do it?"

"I tell you it ain't natural for a fellow to get at the top without some woman sies him on!"

The old salt gave me a stare—"Say, you're a girl and you had long chats with both of 'em. Whatya think of 'em yourself? I'd like to know how a girl sies 'em up. I've wondered if Tunney keeps shy of the girls because they ain't so strong for him."

"Tell you what, which one would you marry if it had to be one or the other?"

Which portentous question shall be frankly answered in this space tomorrow!

Because of the sale of six large grain tanks and the grain elevator to the Cargill Grain company of Green Bay, the Klissman company will complete its work in Appleton in about six weeks. It had been originally planned to wreck the tanks and the elevator, but the Cargill company took a lease on the buildings and the land for a year and signed contracts to buy the entire property at the end of the year.

The Cargill company has had a group of men busy for the past week repairing the elevator and making it ready for storing grain.

THREE NOTED SPEAKERS ON WOMEN'S PROGRAM

Madison—(AP)—Three outstanding speakers are on the program of the state convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs, to be held here October 12-14.

They are Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn of the University of Wisconsin, Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart of the United States educational staff and Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, deputy attorney general of the United States. Mrs. Willebrandt will speak on law enforcement.

Mrs. John D. Sherman, Estes Park, Colo., president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, and Mrs. Edward Franklin White, Indianapolis, first vice-president, will attend the convention.

The Wisconsin federation has 335 clubs, with a membership of more than 25,000 women.

COMPANY SALESMEN HOLD CONFERENCE HERE

A meeting of representatives in the northern division of the James Manufacturing Co. of Fort Atkinson was held with I. M. Abernethy, sales manager of the company, at Hotel Appleton Monday morning. R. N. Ruykendaal, who is in charge of the dairy division of the James company, which manufactures dairy and farm equipment, spoke to the men. About 12 salesmen were present.

WOMAN HURT AND 8 CARS DAMAGED IN TRAFFIC JAMS

Two Men Taken into Custody for Drunkenness After Accidents

One woman suffered a badly lacerated hand, serious cuts and contusions to the body, and eight automobiles were damaged in four traffic accidents reported to Appleton police over the weekend.

Mrs. William Meier, 211 W. Pacific-st, was injured when an automobile she was driving was struck by another machine at the intersection of W. Pacific-st and Appleton-st at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. The injured woman was taken to her home.

Both cars were badly damaged, according to police.

Reuben Grube, 1723 N. Appleton-st, was the second principal in the collision. He was driving a car owned by Otis Ritzner of the same address.

At noon Sunday a machine driven by Walter Kohl, R. F. D. No. 3, crashed into a parked car listed to George Eahlnke, Neenah, which had been loaned to Arthur Bowers, Menasha, on E. College-ave. The front end of Kohl's car was stove in and the rear end of the Eahlnke machine damaged.

Later Saturday night on S. Oneida-st in front of St. Elizabeth hospital an automobile driven by Joseph Steffen, 201 Commercial-st, collided with a parked car owned by Richard Buss, R. F. D. N. 1, Menasha. Both cars were badly damaged.

Steffen was arrested on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated and a companion, Ralph Smith, 201 Second-st, Menasha, was taken into custody charged with being drunk.

John Gifford, 604 Wisconsin-st, Kaukauna, was arrested on a similar charge after an accident in front of 1021 E. Pacific-st, Saturday night, when the automobile he was driving collided with a parked car belonging to Arthur Wells of that address. Both cars were slightly damaged.

Dahlman Sells Home

Emil Dahlman sold a new home on W. Third-st, was sold last week to Fred Calmes of Appleton. The Calmes family will move into its new home at once. The deal was made by the Laabs and Shepherd.

HOLD POLICE CAR TAKEN WITH TWO BANK BANDITS

The Case touring car in which James "Blackie" Lynch and John McFarland confessed bank robbers were arrested at Balsam Lake recently is in possession of the Appleton police department pending determination of ownership. It was reported by Chief George T. Prim on Monday.

Search of the records reveal that the machine was sold through a Minnesota distributor for the Case company. This distributor is out of business and the Minneapolis police department has been requested to determine details concerning the purchase of the automobile and whether transfers of ownership have been recorded.

At the time he was returned here for trial McFarland claimed he had

PAMPHLET TELLS WHAT VOCATION SCHOOL IS DOING

Explains Courses of Study and Requirements for Permits

Information concerning the part time school, the school employment bureau and the method of obtaining work permits has been distributed in the form of a pamphlet at the Appleton vocational school. Questions usually asked of the school authorities about these three important phases of the work of the school have been answered in this booklet. Pamphlets were printed in the school print shop last spring.

The pamphlet states the requirements of the part time education law, the time classes are held, what is taught in these classes, and instructions for entering them. The part time school differs from the full time school in that it does not have any prescribed course of study for every pupil, but it gives special instruction and training necessary to hold a present job or to obtain a better job in the future, the booklet states.

WHO MUST ATTEND
Boys and girls from 14 to 18 years of age are required by law to attend the part time vocational school unless they are enrolled in the grammar or secondary schools or the full time vocational school, it was said. Under the part time law all persons are required to attend all classes and to obtain work permits from the permit officer located at the vocational school.

Under this law the student may go to work when he is 14 years old and may continue his studies at the same time he is working and earning money. Parents are responsible for attendance of their children at the school and are liable to fine or imprisonment or both fine and imprisonment if they fail in this responsibility. Persons who wish to continue at the part time school after they are 18 years of age are entirely welcome, it was said, if they feel they can obtain benefit from such attendance.

The Appleton vocational school will help students find work when they are not employed through the employment bureau which is cooperating with the Junior division of the United States Employment service. Registrations are accepted at the school.

NEED PERMITS
Everyone under 17 years of age must have a working permit under the law, it was stated. There are four kinds of these permits: Street trades permits for persons from 12 to 17 years, regular permits for part time employment for persons from 14 to 17 years, after school, Saturday and vacation permits for persons between 14 and 17 years, and vacation permits for persons to work in a store, office, mercantile establishment,

"R" Months And Oysters Are Approaching Again

As September is one of the months with an "r" in it, it won't be long before Appleton stores and shops will be well stocked with nice, fresh oysters. Then local people may eat as many oysters as they wish without offending the ancient custom which decrees that oysters may only be eaten during a month with an "r" in it.

Ask the average man how many varieties of oysters there are, and he will probably say: "Why, I didn't know there were more than one." Or possibly he might recognize the distinction between native and pearl oysters.

The fact is, however, that there are no fewer than 150 named species of oysters, of which a considerable number are edible. In this section the people are particularly fond of the "blue point," which is an oyster of more than ordinary size. Epicures, however, say that its flavor is not equal to that of some of the best of the smaller varieties. Appleton stores are expecting shipments of oysters within the next week or ten days, and when the small bivalves arrive, all local oyster enthusiasts may test for themselves the advantage of any particular species.

Long Island sound and Chesapeake bay contain the greatest oyster beds on the American continent. As many as 15,000,000 oysters a year have been shipped from Virginia alone. In Florida and Texas oysters are plentiful and nearly every other coastwise state has fleets of motor boats engaged in the oyster trade. The oysters found in many of the states are a small variety, and are usually removed from their shells and sold in pint or half-pint cans.

ENGLISH OYSTERS BEST
Englishmen claim that the native oysters found on the east coast of their country are the best in the world. Whitstable and Colchester are particularly famous for their oysters. In the latter town there is held each October, when the bivalves are supposed to be at their best, a great Oyster feast. This is a very ancient festival, dating back several hundred years.

In the London market may also be found "Victorians," "Royal Natives," "Dutch," "Portuguese," and even Mediterranean oysters. Victorians and Royal Natives are bred on the French coast and laid down to fatten in the English beds.

Australia has its own oysters, one warehouse, telegraph, telephone, or public messenger service.

To obtain a permit one must furnish a proof of age and present a letter from the employer promising employment. Applicants must also present a school certificate proving that they have either finished the eighth grade or have spent nine years beyond the kindergarten in the attempt.

variety of which is the biggest in the world. It is as large as an ordinary dinner plate, and one makes a meal. On the African coast is found a tree oyster, which clings by a kind of stem to the twisted roots of mangroves. Most Americans would find it distasteful to chase their oysters through the trees with a landing net. The pearl oyster, found in various parts of the world, is scarcely edible. Though not actually unwholesome, it requires cooking before it is fit for consumption.

A PROLIFIC CREATURE
The oyster is one of the most prolific creatures alive. A single drop of water lifted from the beds on the end of a match in the spawning season, and examined under a microscope will be found to contain a dozen or more infinitely tiny baby oysters. Scientists, however, estimate that not more than about one in a million of those born survive. Even so, they grow so thickly on the beds that at a certain season every year they have to be thinned out and transplanted. This operation is known as "singling the brood."

An oyster bed is a valuable property. The expense of upkeep is, moreover, considerable. The beds have to be regularly patrolled to guard against the depredations of the oyster pirates. In the Chesapeake Bay region bloody warfare has frequently resulted from clashes between the bed owners and the pirates. Many of the latter have been killed and others heavily punished but the temptation for piracy is great. A single small dredge, worked by hand in a good bed by a man who knows his job, can collect oysters at the rate of several dollars' worth a minute.

MOTORCYCLE RIDERS NAME ROHM PRESIDENT

Formation of the Fox Valley Motorcycle club with election of officers took place Thursday night at Harry Macklin's shop. By-laws were adopted for the organization. The nucleus of the club comprises 25 members.

Officers elected are:
E. Rohm, R. F. D. No. 4, Appleton, president; Harry Macklin, secretary; R. Bohnsack, treasurer, and Charles Hiesig, road captain.

Meetings, it was announced will be held each Thursday evening. During the winter months the club will be largely social in nature and rooms will be engaged for headquarters, it was stated.

The object of the organization is to further interest in motorcycling, arranging for field meets, races and polo games, members say.

Application for representation in the club have been approved from riders in Kimberly, Little Chute, Kaukauna, New London, Seymour, Appleton, and other sections of the county.

WANT NEW NAME FOR SOCIETY OF SOCIAL WORKERS

Believing that its present name does not adequately describe the work which it is sponsoring, the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work is receiving suggestions for a new name, according to a notice received from Aubrey W. Williams, general secretary, by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce. A number of acceptable suggestions already have been received. Mr. Williams informs the local chamber, but no names are desired before a final selection is made.

Some of the most outstanding names proposed so far to include the following: Wisconsin Civic and Social Work Bureau; Wisconsin Citizens, Incorporated; Wisconsin Community Work Conference; Wisconsin Welfare Council; Wisconsin Community Work and Welfare Bureau; Wisconsin Citizen Bureau.

The local chamber has been asked to submit suggestions for a new name.

START WORK SOON ON JACKMAN-ST HILL

Preparation of Jackman-st hill for paving will be started soon, it is reported at the city hall. Although it is hardly likely that the pavement will be laid this fall, everything will be put in readiness to pave the hill early next spring.

Many loads of dirt will be required to fill in the road near the bottom of the hill, the city engineer reports. It will be necessary to raise the level as high as five feet in some places and as there is a shortage of fill-in material just now, it is feared the work will not progress as rapidly as it otherwise would. The dirt will be dumped there as rapidly as it is received, however.

CATLIN FIGHTS TO SAVE BEAUTY OF WOLF RIVER

His Plea for Preservation of Beauty Spot Called "Maudlin" by Corporation

"Wisconsin power utilities have formed a statewide trust, dividing up the power energy and the market," was the charge made by Mark Catlin, Appleton attorney and football coach at Lawrence college, at a hearing on the water power rights on the Wolf river within the Menominee Indian reservation before Major John J. Kincaid, federal district engineer, at the federal building in Milwaukee Thursday. Mr. Catlin attended the meeting as one of the sportsmen of the state who object to having the scenic spots in Wisconsin spoiled by the utility companies.

The hearing was somewhat of a quarrel between the hydro-electric interests, tribal Indians and persons objecting to the destruction of the scenic beauty of the Wolf river. The Wisconsin Power and Light company has petitioned federal water power commission for permission to make a preliminary survey of the reservation lands. It is proposed to build five or six modern hydro-electric stations, utilizing the tremendous drop of the Wolf river.

SPEND $3,000,000
Some 60,000,000 kilowatt hours would be developed, according to testimony brought out at the hearing and the company stands ready to spend $3,000,000 if the survey right is granted, engineering facts warrant, and permission is given by the federal bureau.

Representatives of the Menominee reservation expressed a variety of opinions, one faction desiring that the Indian develop the power, another favoring the lease to the W. P. and L. company and other demanding bidding for the rights and another group objecting to the survey altogether.

"As a matter of fact, I have seen the map and plans for the division of the entire state among the utilities," charged Attorney Catlin. "It is putting all the power rights into one corporation and stifling the rights of competition."

"I object to this survey permit for the reason that it is foreclosing on the finest scenic spot in Wisconsin. The idea of flood control is idle talk. The great means that this company will ultimately build a plant and pay the Indians a mere pittance, about two mills a kilowatt."

"Do we want to see Koshena falls, the Dells of the Wolf, Big Eddy and other spots desecrated by power stations? They would make a mill pond and a spillway of a district that attracts 5,000 people a day because of

WATCH YOUR STOVES, IS FIRE CHIEF'S WARNING

Clean chimneys, grates and stove-pipes, are a means of fire-protection of which householders should be certain before starting to take the chill off the early morning and late evenings. Fire Chief George P. McGillan pointed out this fact, closed smoke and draft flues, carefully built open grate fires and burning chimneys represent a large percentage of the reasons for fire alarms during a year, the chief declared.

HEALTH EXAMS FOR STUDENTS

Subject Newcomers to Examinations to Determine Physical Fitness

New students at Lawrence college were subjected to physical examinations during the past week by Dr. R. V. Landis, college physician. He was assisted by Miss Irene McCourt, college nurse.

The purpose of the examinations was to find a basis on which to place gymnasium work to fit the needs and abilities of students and to have records of health conditions in case of sickness. Examinations probably will be conducted each year before the opening of school, it was said.

An infirmary has been fitted up in Ormsby Annex. Dr. Landis will have office hours at regular periods through the week. Miss McCourt will live in the infirmary, and all students who are ill will be taken there for treatment. Formerly separate infirmaries were located in the dormitories and the college nurse visited them during the day.

It's beauty, I feel that the state is ready to buy the property to save it." The legal point as to whether the government had the right to lease the tribal lands also was raised by Mr. Catlin.

The plea of Mr. Catlin and Mrs. Ben Hooper of Oshkosh, who insisted that the Indians have the final say on the disposition of the rights, were branded as "maudlin" by several attorneys appearing for the corporation.

Attorneys claimed that instead of destroying the beauty spots they would make them better and would improve on the fishing by the erection of dams. It was also declared that the electrical development was of more importance to the state and the people than scenic merits.

Congressman George J. Schneider of Appleton also attended the hearing.

Mrs. George E. Merrill of Los Angeles, is visiting her brother, D. Carroll.

CONVENTION TO HEAR SPEAKERS BOOSTS SCHOOLS

Dollars and Cents Value of Education to Be Stressed to Boards

Facts and figures to prove them—not mere fancies—illustrating the dollar and cents value of higher education will be driven home in pungent speeches to the assembled school boards and rural teachers at the convention next Thursday, according to announcements.

Much of the spirit of the meeting is to be concentrated on winning the cooperation of the attendance to the standard that through them in their home communities great strides can be made in bringing a better understanding of school ideals and school benefits to the general public.

From an economic viewpoint education, according to economists, pays huge dividends and this fact will be stressed, County Superintendent A. G. Meating says.

To quote Dr. Everett Lord, Boston University:

"Labor begins its activities at 14 years and arrives at its maximum earning capacity at 30. The average is $1,200 annually. From this point it dwindles and falls below the strata

It is glorious to awake with a lively, healthy, energetic body. It is miserable to drag an aching, tired, weary body from a restless, sleepless bed.

The chances are that impaired kidney and bladder action has failed to clear the blood stream of lurking poisons which cause the distressing aches and pains, backache, pain in muscles and joints, rheumatism, a weary tired feeling, dull headaches, and irregular bladder action.

Foley Pills, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys, are a reliable valuable medicine that promotes sound health by stimulating kidneys and bladder to healthy, normal activity. In constant use over 25 years. Contains no harmful ingredients. Satisfaction guaranteed. Ask for Foley Pills, diuretic.

of self-support at 50. A boy, graduate at 40. The average man earns at 18 and economically takes the laborer in 7 years. A man has an earning power of $1,200 a year. The man graduated from college earns at 22. At 28 he equals the earning capacity of the high school graduate at 40. The average earning power of the college graduate is $6,000 a year.

That last sentence tells the story of what educators are trying to impress on the public, Mr. Meating declared.

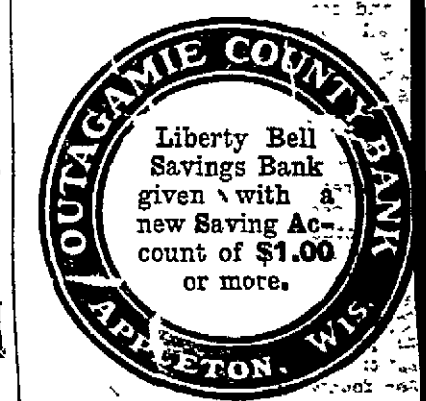

RUPTURE SHIELD EXPERT HERE

E. J. Meinhardt, the well known expert from Chicago, will personally be at the Beaumont Hotel, Green Bay, Wis., on Friday, Sept. 24th, and he will be at the Athearn Hotel, Oshkosh, Wis., on Saturday, Sept. 25th, from 9:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

Mr. Meinhardt says: "The Vacuum Rupture Shield" will not only hold the rupture perfectly, but will control the opening in thirty days on the average case—usually giving instantaneous relief withstanding all strains and girdles of the size and location of the rupture.

WARNING: Do not expose yourself to the danger of wearing old struts with understraps. The struts usually place the pad on the hip and not on the rupture opening. This causes the struts to pull which usually necessitates an operation or relapse. Sudden death. "The Vacuum Rupture Shield" has no understraps, no straps around the body or legs. It is a perfectly sanitary and practically indestructible, and should be worn while bathing. Only gentlemen are invited to call at this time as a special visit will be made here later for women and children.

Notice: "The Vacuum Rupture Shield" can not be fitted by mail. Every case must be seen personally. Please note the above dates and come carefully. Strictly no charge for demonstration. Address all correspondence to E. J. Meinhardt Co., Grand Rapids, Michigan.

KAUKAUNA NEWS

G. W. PATTON
Kaukauna RepresentativeLUDKE PIGEONS WIN 5 PLACES IN 300 MILE RACEFirst and Second Place Winners Are Just a Second
Apart

Kaukauna—The Ludke twin lofts again won the majority of places in Sunday's three hundred mile race of the Kaukauna Pigeon club. They took the first five places. A. Ludke won first when his bird arrived at 2:23-10 in the afternoon and his son Edward took second place when one of his birds timed in only a second later at 2:23-11. A. Ludke won third and E. Ludke took fourth and fifth. Prizes were given for the first five places. The birds flew from Waseca, Minn., and were released there at 6 o'clock in the morning. This made the winners flying time 5 hours, 23 minutes and 10 seconds. Flying time was poor because of a northerly wind and a cloudy sky which hindered the birds. Fifty birds were shipped to Waseca and up until a late hour Sunday night only three lofts had reported birds back making this race another disastrous one for most club members.

This in all probability will be the last race of the season because most of the members do not care to fly anymore this fall after the big losses they have suffered. A. Ludke has the average speed of the season clinched while it is thought his son Edward has second place. This is the fifth race for the young birds. Winners of the other races were: 80 mile, E. Ludke; 100 mile, F. Heimke; 150 mile, F. Heimke; 200 mile, A. Ludke; 300 mile, A. Ludke.

The complete results of Sunday's race are as follows: first, A. Ludke, 2:23-10; second place, 2:23-11; third, A. Ludke, 2:23-11; fourth, E. Ludke, 2:24-13; fifth, E. Ludke, 2:24-13; sixth, F. Heimke, 2:26-52; seventh, F. Heimke, 2:40-51.

Beatrice Watson Turns in $9.69 for First Prize
Among Workers

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The Have a Heart campaign, sponsored by the Volunteers of America, with Miss Isabelle Margraff, raised $101.78 for the fund intended to aid destitute children throughout the state and help preserve farm camps. Miss Margraff stated that $1 more than last year was realized.

Prizes were awarded the little workers, first prize being won by Beatrice Watson whose receipts for the day showed $9.69. Her prize was a $5 gold ring from George J. Furst, jeweler.

Anabelle Able, with a total of $7.06, won the boudoir lamp from the store of Pomeroy and Cline, while May Holts won the fountain pen offered by the Western Drug store with her high of $7.01. With $6.17, Bertha Dalry won the box of chocolates offered by the Lyons Candy Shop. Grace Cummings also won a fountain pen from the Spearbreakers' drug store with the sum of $5.11 while the sixth prize was given to Myrtle Lauer who won the compact of the Sebring store. Her amount for the day was $5.71. Twenty tickets to the local theaters were given out which means that ten girls totaled over three dollars worth of tags.

Patrons of the affair were Mrs. W. E. Martin, Mrs. Fay R. Smith, Mrs. A. C. Eorchard, Mrs. George Ruppel, and Mrs. E. W. Wendlandt.

FINISH WORK ON LITTLE RAPIDS DAM THIS WEEK

Modern Structure Is Completed Except for Removal of Coffer Dams

Concrete work on the Little Kaukauna government dam at Little Rapids was completed early last week according to E. J. Everett, United States engineer, and finishing touches were being made during the latter part of the week. Steel for a walk along the top of the dam was being put into place. H. B. Palmer of Appleton, United States junior engineer is in charge of the building operation.

When the concrete has set sufficiently the coffer dam above the new construction will be removed and the work will then be completed. It is expected that the coffer dam may be removed about the latter part of the week.

The new dam is one of the most modern on the Fox river canal. It is constructed almost entirely of concrete and steel and is 587.7 feet long, spanning the entire river, except the canal for boat passage on the north side. The dam is waterproof.

The top of the dam is at the water crest, allowance having been made for a six foot navigation level, which is the average depth of the water at this point.

In the middle of the dam is a row of eight gates which can be raised and lowered. The board walk is to be constructed about three feet above the top of the dam. Work on the dam was started in the spring of 1925.

In June 1922, flood washed away some of the abutments from the north bank of the river and navigation had to be closed for the entire season. Precautions have been taken to prevent a similar occurrence. The dam is devised to handle any ordinary amount of flood water which the river can carry.

SNAIL SHELL HATS POPULAR IN LONDON

London—(AP)—London women have gone to the gardens and hedges for something new in hat styles and have evolved a type for the "fall" which is almost an exact replica of the snail-shell.

The colors used in the make-up—green and gray—assist the illusion created by the snail-like swathing of the drapery.

The Neapolitan fisherman's hat often has been copied in knitted material for seaside wear but Bond Street milliners have appropriated the shape for their autumnal creations and are producing it in many colors.

COOLIDGE IN GARDEN OF CHILDHOOD

This is the old-fashioned hollyhock garden where Calvin Coolidge played as a child. Revisiting it was a memorable incident of the President's trip from his summer White House back to the family homestead at Plymouth, Vt.

STAGE —And— SCREEN

SHE HAD NEVER SEEN A MAN
Slim, lithe, and vibrant, full of the joy of living. A boyish figure, without against the dawn as she sought the pool in her island retreat for her morning plunge. A cigarette dropped upon a rock. And she had never seen a cigarette. That is one of the unusual situations in "The Non Stop Flight" which will be shown at Fischer's Appleton Theatre this next Friday and Saturday, in conjunction with the weekend five act vaudeville bill, which is based upon the historic flight of the P. N. 9 in its dash to the Hawaiian Islands. Liberties have been taken with the actual story of the flight, to give it the romance and thrills which go to make up the movie which holds you interested from the start to the last reel.

MATT MOORE IS EXCEPTIONAL "EARLY TO WED"
According to advance reports Matt Moore is better than ever in "Early to Wed." Fox Films feature at the New Bijou three days starting today.

Once again he portrays the young husband who is working his way to the top as rapidly as he can, only this time, he is more of a bashfully surprising type. He and his little wife Daphne have been content to live in a small boarding house until Timmy gets his start. Then Art Nevers, a seemingly successful friend of the young couple convince them that to get ahead they must live in an exclusive neighborhood and meet moneyed people in order to get ahead. Not only that but he makes Tommy promise to demand a raise from his boss to live properly on.

The result is that Tommy loses his job, and since they have already ordered the furniture from "The Bountiful Friend," and leased the house, they move in and start trying to catch up with their debts. This leads to complications, climaxed when the man whom Tommy wishes to impress calls right after the furniture has been forcibly removed from every room but one.

AGNES AYRES BACK ON SCREEN IN "THE SON OF THE SHEIK"
After several years' separation since "The Sheik," Agnes Ayres and Rudolph Valentino are in love again—but only for the movies. Miss Ayres terminated a screen vacation of twelve months when she appeared with Rudolph Valentino before the camera in scenes for Rudy's last film. "The Son of the Sheik," which is being shown at the Elite Theatre starting today.

The screen lovers of other days appear once more in exact replicas of the picturesque costumes they wore in "The Sheik," which swept both to fame and stardom. The new film is a sequel to "The Sheik," being also an adaptation from an E. M. Hull novel. Many of the scenes in which Miss Ayres and Valentino appear together duplicate the former love-making in "The Sheik" scenes. They are what is technically known as "flash-backs." Out of courtesy to United Artists Corporation and sentiment for a film which meant so much to her success, Miss Ayres was prompted to sign a contract. When it was decided that "The Son of the Sheik," should contain "flash-backs" to the old Sheik, Valentino felt the picture would be incomplete without Miss Ayres. She graciously consented to enact the role, although it was not her intention to return to the screen until some time later in the year.

The original costumes worn by Miss Ayres and Valentino in "The Sheik" were recreated for the new picture and are worn again in "The Son of the Sheik."

Women doctors comprise about 12 per cent of the total number of medicals practicing in London.

GUN DISPLAY DRAWS INTEREST

Ancient Weapons Exhibited in Window of Hardware Store

An interesting collection of guns, swords, spears, pistols, revolvers, boomerangs and darts and other weapons are on display in the Galpin's Hardware store window. More than 300 articles are included in the display.

One section of the exhibit is a collection of weapons collected from the natives of the Philippine islands by Arthur Fluno and loaned by the Masonic Temple association. Among the articles in this collection are several boomerangs, metal pointed spears, shields, darts, swords and flint arrow heads.

SEWER DIGGERS FINISH JOB THRU QUICKSAND

Laying of a sewer on E. Wisconsin-ave from N. Leminwah-st to the railroad tracks was completed Monday morning. The work had been delayed for about two weeks because of caves caused by quicksand. It was necessary to dig just a few feet at a time.

PUT NEW ROOF ON ICE CREAM CO. BUILDING

Construction of a new roof on the Bellevue Ice Cream company building, 121 N. Superior-st. was started last Wednesday. Martin Boldt and Sons Construction company has the contract. The roof will be completed in about two weeks.

Stanley L. Staidl, assistant district attorney, was to leave Detroit on Monday to motor back to Appleton after spending two weeks in military training with the flying corps. Mr. Staidl is expected to be at the office Tuesday, the district attorney reported.

EVEN COOLIDGE IS TOO RADICAL FOR SEN. MOSES

New Hampshire Republican Most Conservative of All Conservatives

NEA Service Writer

Washington—Senator George H. Moses, who will be coming back to Washington as a member of the 70th Congress because the New Hampshire Republicans have renominated him and a New Hampshire Republican nomination is as good as an election, is as much of an insurgent as Senator Norris or Senator La Follette or anybody, when he feels like it.

But oh, what a different kind of an insurgent!

Norris, La Follette et al., are insurgents of the liberal pattern. Moses' insurgency is conservative, not to say reactionary. Even President Coolidge is too radical for him at times, and when you've said that you've gone the limit.

Ex-Gov. Robert P. Bass of New Hampshire, who opposed Moses in the Republican primary, based his whole fight on the ground that the latter hasn't always supported the administration in the upper house of Congress.

It's true, too—on the world court issue, for instance.

So, in a sense, Moses' victory was another rebuke for President Coolidge. Still, it wasn't the same sort of emphatic rebuke that he received in Wisconsin, in the nomination of Gov. John J. Blaine for the Senate over the present Republican incumbent, Senator Irvine L. Lenroot.

Lenroot is strictly an "administration man." Blaine is completely off the "regular" Republican reservation. Moses doesn't always see eye to eye with the administration, but he's a "regular" Republican in good standing.

From the administration stand point, the only thing that takes the course of the Wisconsin result is that it wasn't unexpected.

The "dope" all along has been that Blaine would beat Lenroot. The only surprise was that Blaine didn't win by a wider margin. And there, perhaps, lies another little grain of comfort for the administration—there's division in the ranks of Wisconsin "progressive" Republicans.

Blaine not only didn't win as overwhelmingly as he'd hoped, but Herman L. Ekern, one of the late Senator La Follette's chief lieutenants, was beaten for governor by Fred R. Zimmerman, who also calls himself a progressive but isn't of "young Bob" La Follette's faction.

Representative J. D. Beck, a good La Follette-ite, was likewise beaten for re-nomination by Merlino Hull, another progressive, but not a La Follette-ite of this year's model.

Wisconsin "progressive" Republican division is incense in the nostrils of Republican "regularity."

To return, however, to Senator Moses.

He may be reactionary, but you can't help liking and respecting him. He has ability and, what doesn't often go with it in the case of politicians, nerve.

To senators from states like Norris, La Follette's, Smith W. Brookhart's and Gerald P. Nye's independence is an asset. Nobody disputes that they're genuine independents, but they can afford to be.

In "regular" New Hampshire independence is a liability. Moses doesn't care a hoot. If he doesn't like some "regular" proposition, though he's a "regular," he says so and says it with an emphasis and pugnacity that make it sound perfectly awful.

In his primary campaign Moses got one of the oddest endorsements from his fellow senators in the history of politics. It was as much from Democrats as from Republicans. "We don't like his politics but we like Moses," chorused the former. "We hope he's renominated."

WISCONSIN—Fair tonight and probably Tuesday; slightly warmer Tuesday in West portion.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

A west Indian hurricane of great energy is moving into the Gulf of Mexico section, attended by much damage, a strong and expensive high pressure area overlies the Lake Region, upper Mississippi Valley, and adjacent territory with generally fair weather, and with low temperatures in the north. Light to heavy frost is reported this morning from northern Minnesota and extreme Northern Wisconsin. This "High" will continue to dominate conditions in this section tonight and Tuesday, with continued low temperatures. Temperatures may near the frost line tonight, but no material injuries are anticipated in this immediate section.

First "Grads" Of Lawrence Married Sixty-Six Years

MR. AND MRS. HENRY COLMAN

The sixty-sixth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Colman of Milwaukee, celebrated Monday, belied that higher education makes for shorter and less happy marriages. For Mrs. Colman was one of the first women of America to receive a bachelor of arts degree, and with Mr. Colman, was graduated in the first class from Lawrence college.

Seventy-three years ago Henry Colman met Lucinda Darling when they were members of the first class of Lawrence in 1853. Lawrence was the second college in America to become co-educational, Oberlin of Ohio being the first. They were married on Sept. 20, 1860, three years after graduation. The husband became a Methodist minister rising to important offices in the state conference and the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. In 1888, he organized the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league. Mrs. Colman aided her husband in his work, both in church and in his reform activities, and was also interested in kindergarten work in the public schools.

Seventeen years ago, when 75 years of age, Mr. Colman retired from the ministry and now the couple at the ages of 92 and 91 years respectively are living at their home in Milwaukee.

Dr. Colman has been for many years a trustee of the college from which he was graduated, and both he and his wife have watched it grow from an enrollment of seven students in its first year to an enrollment of more than 1,400 students last year.

Twenty New Threshing Machines In County

Because of the great number of threshing machines working throughout the county this season, all threshing in Outagamie will be completed this week. According to several farmers there were 20 new threshing machines in operation this fall. Other years threshers were usually busy until late in November, but the season was shortened to five weeks or about one half the regular period.

Last year the threshing machine owners had a fine year and it is thought that because of the splendid business many more individuals decided to buy machines.

With the large number of new machines in the county, however, it is only a question of time before some must quit business. A new machine complete costs about $3,000 and it takes the owner several years to pay it.

COURSE OFFERED IN CITIZENSHIP AT SCHOOL HERE

Americanization Is Purpose of Vocational Classes for Recent Immigrants

Americanization and miscellaneous classes are included in the courses offered to residents of Appleton in the evening school, which opens the first week in October at the Appleton Vocational school. Included in these courses are English, citizenship, general science, arithmetic, algebra, public speaking and the foremen's club. The English class, one of the Americanization courses, is designed for recent arrivals from foreign countries who desire to enroll for advancement in the use of English in speaking, reading and writing.

Citizenship class is for those persons who desire instruction in American history and government in order to assist them to get their second papers.

The general science course gives information concerning the laws of nature and their application in industry. A general review of the fundamentals will be given in the arithmetic course.

In the public speaking class a course is offered for beginning and advanced students. It covers the fundamentals of practical public speaking.

The algebra course is designed for those students who wish a form of mathematics.

The Foremen's club is an organization that meets once a week for the purpose of studying the problems of modern industry. The work of the club is shaped to meet the needs of members.

MAY CHANGE PRIMARY IN STATE OF INDIANA

Indianapolis—(AP)—Modification of the Indiana primary election law may be effected by a bi-partisan effort at the 1927 session of the state legislature. Planks indicative of sentiment in favor of a change in the primary were incorporated in both the Democratic and Republican platforms at their state conventions.

The Democratic plank made this declaration: "We believe the ends of representative government would be better served if the power to nominate all candidates were restored to the party state conventions and the primary be made optional in the lesser units of government."

The Republican plank said: "Recognizing the evils of the present primary law we suggest that the matter be brought before the next legislature for modification and we recommend that it be so modified that it will restore representative government by political parties."

SUN DIALS POPULAR

London—Sun dials are coming into vogue again. The romance of antiquity surrounds them, and they have lived over into this age because of their beauty and associations. In the old days every dial carried its message, such as "The longest day must end. Make hay while the sun shines." "Be true as the dial to the sun." "Improve each shining hour."

CALL CONFERENCE TO STUDY SEWAGE DISPOSAL

A sanitation program for Lake Michigan will be studied at the third annual meeting of the Lake Michigan Sanitation congress Friday and Saturday, Sept. 24 and 25, at Memorial Hall, Racine, a notice received Saturday by the chamber of commerce stated. The slogan for the meeting will be "Let's Clean Up Clean."

Lake pollution is a rapidly growing menace to health and life, according to the official announcement of the meeting. Chicago started a sewage diversion plan several years ago, northern Indiana is now seeking ways and means to similarly purify drinking water, while in Milwaukee now has a sewage plant in operation. It is pointed out. In most other lake cities sewage disposal has been given little concern, it is said.

Prominent sanitary engineers of the country have been engaged to talk at the meeting, the program indicates. A banquet will be held Friday evening at Hotel Racine, and music, professional dancing and other entertainment will be afforded. A special train will convey delegates to Milwaukee Saturday for an inspection of the new sewage treatment works in that city, Maurice J. Clarke, secretary, has announced.

SLATE GENRICH TO HEAD G. O. P. IN WISCONSIN

Zimmerman Campaign Leader Makes Bid for Party Chairmanship

Madison—E. B. Genrich, Milwaukee, is expected to be elected state chairman of the Republican party, which will hold its convention here Tuesday. Mr. Genrich has been prominent in Milwaukee campaigns for a number of years and was in charge of the campaign for Fred R. Zimmerman in Milwaukee this year. He has a large acquaintance among the members of the legislature. Henry A. Huber, lieutenant governor, is expected to preside over the convention.

Political leaders who have been checking over the primary returns believe that there is a majority of Progressives in the platform convention. A new political division, however, has arisen in the state. Many of the men who have been nominated for assembly and senate seats are already openly aligned with the Zimmerman organization. With the senate conservative it is believed that a combination of conservative members of the legislature with Zimmerman men who have been nominated will furnish a majority for control of the platform convention.

KLAN AND DRY LAW WORRY The LaFollette forces in the platform convention are expected to endorse Ira Lorenz, Milwaukee, for state chairman and to offer the platform used in the recent campaign almost in total, as the platform of the convention.

It is expected that two hot fights will develop over the platform. One Milwaukee assemblyman has announced that he will offer a plank denouncing the Klan. Another has announced that he will demand an indorsement of the wet issue. Both of these planks have been avoided.

TWO OTHER CONVENTIONS The convention will select one man from each congressional district to work with the nominees for state offices in drafting a platform. Reports are that Mr. Zimmerman, who has been nominated for governor, will make a conservation issue one of the paramount planks. Mr. Zimmerman also will urge the adoption of a plank similar to that presented in his personal platform, which declares in favor of the abolition of the tax on personal property. Mr. Zimmerman also favors the abolition of the personal property tax on automobiles. There are over 600,000 automobiles in the state that would be affected.

HEAVY RAINS PROTECT FORESTS AGAINST FIRE

Madison—(AP)—Heavy rains during the past several weeks are helping protect the forests in Wisconsin from fire. C. L. Harrington, state superintendent of parks and forests, said today.

The rainfall in some parts of northern Wisconsin has been as heavy as ten inches since about August 20, he said. This, coupled with absence of frost, has made the forests moist and the foliage green. He expressed the opinion that the timber would not become dry before snow begins falling.

The heavy rainfall also has been beneficial by raising the lake levels. Elmer S. Hall, state conservation commissioner, said.

VANITY CASE

© 1926 by G-P-PUTNAM SONS

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Mysterious lights flash one night from the Heath household and the next day Harbor Gardens, Long Island, is agog over the murder of MYRA HEATH and the disappearance of her husband, PERRY.

House guests of the Heaths are LAWRENCE INMAN, heir to MYRA's fortune, and beautiful BUNNY MOORE, to whom suspicion points because of her queer actions.

Myra Heath never used cosmetics, yet when her body was found she was heavily rouged, a rare old bottle from her collection of glass had been used to kill her. Candles at the Country Club, the murder is discussed by SAM ANDERSON, Heath's rival for the club presidency; AL CUNNINGHAM, who is trying to solve the crime, and others.

Bunny is amazed to get a phone call from Heath, saying Inman is the murderer. Inman confides to TODD HUNTER BUCK, who is in love with Bunny, that he saw her ascending the stairs after the murder. One of the Heath servants says the same thing.

Cunningham goes to Anderson's house, and there, while waiting for his host, is suddenly confronted by Perry Heath, who then vanishes in the darkness. Anderson arrives soon after and upbraids Cunningham for letting Heath get away.

Todd Hunter Buck, puzzling as to the best way to clear Bunny, is sitting in the dark when Bunny slips out of the house of his aunt, where she is now a guest, and meets Perry Heath at the edge of a wood. Buck trails Heath but the latter escapes. In despair, Buck sends for his friend, STEVE TRUITT, famous detective.

Bunny, dozing in a chair, awakens to find a strange man staring at her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXI

He smiled—people usually smiled at sight of Bunny.

"Sleep if you like," he said, and his voice was gentle, "I'll take this watch."

"If you were smaller, I should take you to be Mr. Truitt," she said, meditatively, for even sitting down it was plain to be seen that the stranger was a very long person.

"I am Truitt," he said. "It is Buck's favorite jest to tell folks I'm a dwarf or pigmy, and then he thinks it funny when they are surprised. You see," he said, rising, "I outgrew myself as a boy, and never got over it."

He was unusually tall, several inches over six feet, but he carried himself well and with no trace of awkwardness or self-consciousness.

"What is the girl like to whom you are engaged?" asked Bunny, letting her eyes travel up to the very top of this Elfin Tower of humanity.

"I'm not engaged. That's another, I daresay, of Todd's razzlediddles. I suppose he's afraid you'll flirt with me. Do, won't you?"

"Probably. I usually do. But, Mr. Truitt, sit down here by me. I'm glad to talk with you alone a moment. You're here to look into the Heath case, aren't you?"

"Yes, I am a detective, as well as a friend of Buck's. I want to do all I can for him."

"Of course you do. I'm Bunny Moore, a friend of the Heaths. I was in the house at the time, visiting, and I am suspected of being the murderer."

"There was no trace of a smile on Bunny's face. Her eyes looked earnestly into those of Truitt, and he saw that she had serious knowledge of the matter, whatever it might be.

"It seems incredible," he said, not perturbedly, but with a seriousness that equaled her own. "Will you tell me a few details, or shall I wait until Tod comes home?"

"I will talk to you until they come. You don't look like a detective, Mr. Truitt."

"I did, until I changed all that. The first duty of a detective is not to look like one. I was helped by my height, of course. No conventional detective was ever as tall as I am. Then I cultivated a habit of looking like the person I am talking to. See, I now wear a smile like yours."

His face irradiated into a smile that was like, though in no way a mockery of Bunny's own: so much so, that she stared and gasped.

"It's a knock," he said, quietly. "And it gives me the advantage of a versatility of countenance."

"My good Heavens!" she exclaimed. "I never saw anybody like you!"

"Probably not. Now, talk, if you're going to. There's only one way for a detective to learn anything and that's for him to make other people talk to him."

"I thought you used clues and evidence and all that."

"Material clues are all very well, if they're real ones and vital to the case. Evidence is helpful, of course. But the real stuff is what is poured out by the human tongue. Give me a lot of babbling people and I'll solve your case."

"How much ought I tell you?"

"Every bit of a thing you know, I and very much in earnest when I work, Miss Moore, and I cannot always impress on people the desirability of telling all. All. Now, never mind about the general facts, the principal points, or the outstanding details. Tell me what you know that no one else knows. What you saw, what you heard that others didn't hear. What you surmise, that others don't even suspect. Those are the things that will help me to solve the mystery. You want it solved, don't you?"

"Yes, I do now. This morning, I wasn't sure. But sitting here, and thinking about my friend, whom I loved, and seeing her funeral going on, yes, I do want her murderer discovered—wherever he is."

"You didn't kill her?"

"No," and Bunny spoke quietly showing no resentment at the question.

"Do you know who did?"

"I am not sure. As you will learn, as soon as you learn anything about the case."

"Oh, I know the main facts—"

"Then you know there are three principal suspects, Mr. Heath, Mr. Inman and myself. Each of us had motive and opportunity—I've learned that line from the detectives—but my motive was not a strong one, and I didn't make use of my opportunity."

"It was one of the men, then?"

"It was one of the men."

"Which one—do you think?"

"I don't know," she fidgeted a little, and her cheeks glowed pinker, but she went on, "think of it your self. A man and wife and another man. The other man and the wife are desperately in love with one another. Which man is more likely to kill the woman?"

"The husband, of course."

"But the other man is the woman's heir. He is insatiable in his greed for money. He has about given up hope of winning the woman for his own. But if she dies, he will have her fortune. Now, which one?"

"You make it very interesting. Now, what do you know?"

"Only this. I went downstairs, late that night. I found Mrs. Heath dead, in the studio, with candles burning at her head and feet. I touched her, and her flesh was still warm."

At this point Bunny's bravery gave way. She faltered, hesitated, and became suddenly silent.

Understanding, Truitt said, no word, but looked at her with a glance of mingled compassion and encouragement.

And just at that time, there was a commotion next door, and they saw the casket of Mrs. Heath carried out from the house she had loved so well.

The slight restored Bunny's courage, reignited her fire of indignation and caused her to resume her story.

"They will be coming home soon," she said, nervously, "and I want to tell you what I know, Mr. Truitt, because—because you have made me feel it is my duty."

"Tell me only as much or as little as you think best. Do not be carried away by emotion at the sight of that casket. But if you will tell me the truth, I'm sure you will not regret it."

"No. Well, as I came upstairs, I saw Mr. Inman peeping through the crack of his door. He must have heard me on the stairs, and opened it the tiniest mite."

"Yes."

"I was so upset I didn't know what I was doing, but I went blindly on to my own room, and threw myself on the bed."

"Why didn't you raise an alarm?"

"Mr. Truitt, you will think this strange. But I was afraid. I feel years older now, though that was but a few days ago, but at that moment, I felt I just couldn't do anything at all. I vaguely reasoned that if there was any alarming to do, there were people in that house better fitted to look after it than I."

That I, as the youngest and least experienced of the household had no right to take any initiative—only, I know this sounds foolish, but it's the truth. I've never done anything for myself, never had any responsibility of any sort, and I couldn't make my-

Must Use State Tags On Live Duck Decoys

For those sportsmen who like the sure thing game of being able to kill ducks if duck tags are available, a supply of decoy tags are expected to arrive at the office of County Clerk John E. Hantschel soon. The tags cost 10 cents each and the game laws require their use on all live decoys.

The system of using this type of decoy is simple of understanding even to the uninitiated in the thrilling sport, according to nimrods. Usual procedure they say is to tie a short piece of rope to the leg of the decoy and weight the other end down with a stone, thus allowing the duck to swim in a prescribed small circle when set.

The hunter then conceals himself and waits.

Partly, probably from the inconvenience of being hampered to the dictates of Nature in seeking companion-self do anything. I see now, it was cowardly and—

"No, Miss Moore, it was natural. You were stunned, and, moreover, you had reason to believe that Mr. Inman knew something of the matter, or he would not be spying on you. You had reason to think Mr. Heath was in the house—hadn't you?"

"I don't know. I didn't think about Perry—about anybody but Myra. I cried and cried until I fell into a sort of sleep. But I kept starting up and listening every few minutes. And not another sound did I hear in that house all night long. Toward daylight, I began to wonder, if it hadn't been a dream, I got up and undressed and went to bed properly. But I waited almost breathlessly for what the morning might bring. So, when Carter came to tell me the news, I was sitting up in bed, crying."

Steve Truitt looked at her earnestly, but piercingly.

"You were afraid to say anything, because you feared—still fear—that Perry Heath was the criminal and you love him."

"I did love him then," said Bunny, simply. "I don't, now."

ship with its specie the decoy starts to "squawk."

This attracts the wild game which flies in close enough to be shot.

A great many hunters, it was said Friday, feel that this method reduces shooting of game to an exact science rather than elevating it to the pinnacles of true sportsmanship.

MAKE SLOW PROGRESS ON ROAD RELOCATION

Work is progressing somewhat slowly on a new concrete bridge being built between Kimberly station and Little Chute on state trunk highway 15 where the road is being relocated.

It was reported at the highway commission office Saturday.

Rain has held up the work but already one footing is in and what construction does not require pouring concrete is keeping the crew busy, it was stated.

The contract calls for completion about Nov. 15. The structure is estimated to cost $10,000.

BUS DRIVER "ALMOST" PAYS FINE TO COUNTY

J. E. Stumetz, Milwaukee, charged with operating an automobile without license almost paid his fine of $15.20 imposed in municipal court, it was reported Saturday by William Kreiss, Jr., municipal court reporter.

Mr. Stumetz addressed a letter to the court calling attention to an enclosed check. The check, however, was not in the envelope, so Stumetz still owes the county some money. The case has dragged for several weeks records show.

An Evidence of Refinement

Good taste and good health demand sound teeth and sweet breath.

The use of Wrigley's chewing gum takes care of this important item of personal hygiene in a delightful, refreshing way.

Wrigley's removes odors of dining or smoking from the breath by cleaning the teeth, by stimulating the flow of digestive juices, and by the antiseptic action of the flavoring extracts for which Wrigley's is famous—"The Flavor Lasts!"

The result is a sweet breath that evidences care for one's self and consideration for others—the final touch of refinement.

Now—A New Way to Remove Cold Cream

No more harsh substitutes irritant to delicate skin fabric---and no more oily skins!

This New way will work wonders in lightening your skin—will keep your "make-up" fresh for hours! — the ONLY way that removes ALL cream and dirt from the pores.

THIS offers a test that will effect some unique results on your skin. That will make it seem shades lighter than before. That will correct oily skin and nose conditions amazingly. That will double and triple the effectiveness of your "make-up."

Modern beauty science has found a new way to remove cold cream . . . a different way from any you have ever known.

It will prove, no matter how long you've used cleansing cream, you have never removed it, and its germ-laden accumulations, thoroughly, from your skin . . . have never removed it in gentle safety to your skin.

The ONLY right way

We are makers of absorbent; are world authorities in this field.

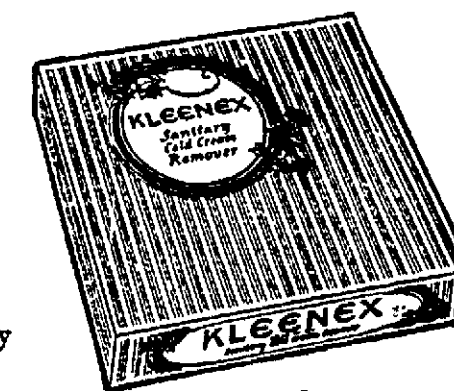

On the urge of a noted dermatologist, we worked to perfect a thorough remover of cold cream. There was no other known.

It took us two years to perfect it. We developed an entirely NEW kind of material to attain it. A unique absorbent that's different from anything you have ever seen.

We call it KLEENEX. White as snow, and soft as down, it comes in exquisite sheets, 27 times as absorbent as an ordinary towel, 25 times that of fibre or tissue substitutes. You use it. Then discard it.

KERCHIEFS

To Remove Cold Cream—Sanitary

At all Drug Stores and Department Stores

Kleenex comes in two sizes . . . the Professional (sheets 9 by 10 inches) and the Boudoir size (sheets 6 by 7 inches) in exquisite flat handkerchief boxes to fit your dressing table drawer.

It is the only way ever known that removes ALL dirt, grease and germ accumulations from the pores.

Stops oily skins and noses Combats skin imperfections

Today, largely on the urge of the skin specialists, women are flocking to this new way.

That's because you use cleansing cream to remove dirt and germ inviting matter from the pores.

Oily skin and nose conditions go, too, so quickly as to amaze.

That's because an oily skin simply indicates cold cream left in the skin. You must "powder" now so often because the pores seek to exude it.

A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

FLOUTING DOCTOR FLINT

The conversation between Angie and myself had been interrupted many times by customers. But at ways when one was not busy she took up the thread as though it had not been dropped. It was my turn now, and as Angie was waiting for the bundle clerk to do up her package, I said in a low voice:

"I really am going to dine with Miss Meredith tonight and some time, my dear Angie, I'll introduce you to her. She said I was a 'regular fellow' and I am sure that is just what she is."

"But how are you going to get out of your engagement, Judy? I couldn't help hearing you told J. D. that you had one."

I stopped short in putting a handkerchief box back on the shelf, for I had just remembered my engagement with Jerry. It was almost five and we were beginning to "put the stock to bed."

"I did have an engagement, Angie, but I am going to break it. I can dine with Jerry Hathaway any time and I may never have a chance to dine with Joan Meredith if I turn her down tonight."

The store nurse stopped at my counter.

"Doctor Flint wants to see you in his office after the store closes, Miss Dean," she said.

"What does he want me for?" I asked instantly, enraged at the sharp command of the doctor who had been so upstaged with me in the early afternoon and whom I thought had been so brutal to Miss Cleaver.

"I'm sure I don't know, Miss Dean. He said something, however, about a bottle that you had picked up in the women's rest room this afternoon."

"Oh, he did, did he? You can tell Doctor Flint that I'm going out to dinner and it will be impossible to see him tonight."

"But Doctor Flint asked me to bring you to his office."

"I don't see how you are going to do it, nurse," I answered flippantly, "unless you find and gag me. I'm not going to his office tonight. If Doctor Flint wants to see me tomorrow, I'll go up to his office on sight time. After five o'clock each night my obligation to anyone in authority in the Men's Department Store ceases. And it doesn't commence again until half past eight the next day."

The closing bell sounded, and the nurse sped away.

"Go on upstairs to the locker room, Angie, and wait for me. I'll be right along. I've got one more thing I want to do here."

As Angie walked toward the elevator, I stopped and hunted around among the papers below the counter at my feet. Finally, I found the bottle with the red skull and crossbones on its label that I was looking for. For the first time since I picked it up in the women's rest room, I looked at it carefully. And I was greatly consoled and encouraged that there was very little of the deadly burning stuff gone from the bottle. Perhaps Miss Cleaver had not taken enough of it to make her case serious.

So Doctor Flint wanted to get this tell-tale evidence away from me. He wouldn't get it if I had anything to do with it. I slipped it into my bag and followed Angie.

"I hope you will have a nice time, Judy," said Angie Horton to me as we were putting on our wraps preparatory to leaving the store. "You will never know how grateful I am to you for letting me have the money. Our rent is due tomorrow. I just didn't know what I was going to do for I hadn't a cent. Perhaps that is what made me say all that foolish stuff about falling for J. D. I expect I wouldn't do it after all, for I have had other chances, and I always managed to get along without taking the fatal step."

Jerry was waiting at the corner with his roadster. I didn't tell him I was not going to dinner with him until I got in the car.

"This has been the longest day I have ever spent," he exclaimed. "Where will we go now, darling?" he asked, turning to me with great satisfaction in his eyes.

"To the Congress Hotel."

"You certainly don't want to go there, Judy, do you? Peacock Alley is full of overdressed women and prowling men at this time of day. I wanted to take you out in the country somewhere for dinner. There are lots of little places outside of the city limits where we probably would be the only people to dine so early."

"That sounds lovely, Jerry, and we will go there some other time. I can't go anywhere to dinner with you this evening."

"But you said—"

"I know I did, Jerry dear, but I'm sure you will let me off. It is very important."

Jerry Hathaway became furiously angry. His face changed so that I was afraid of him.

"I expected, Judy, you're going to dinner with J. D. Robinson," Jerry exclaimed viciously. "I must say you work quick."

In a moment I was quite as angry as he. Jerry Hathaway had no business to have such ungenerous suspicions.

"You have no right to expect anything," I said furiously. "You are not my keeper or my husband."

"No, I'm not. But I have been fool enough to think that I might be your sweetheart. Dad told me just a little while ago that you were too clever for me; that you would throw me over for Robinson in a minute if you found that he could help you along toward your ambition faster than I. Dad said you were a girl whose head would always overrule her heart."

"I don't care a continental damn what your dad says. He is a vicious old man and I'll tell him so the next time I see him. In the meantime you can tell him for me that I have cut another notch in the stick which I owe him. You may put me down here, Jerry. I'm not going to ride with you another block. I'll walk the best of the way to the Congress hotel."

Without another word Jerry drove up the curb and I got out. As he was starting the car I turned and said: "If it will give you any satisfaction I'll tell you as well as the rest of the world that I'm not going to dine with Mr. Robinson tonight."

I walked away as swiftly as possible. "Judy, oh Judy," called Jerry. I didn't turn my head, but I smiled a little as I remembered how many times I had gotten out of automobiles and walked away from them because I didn't like my company.

"Well, this is somewhat better," I said to myself as I went toward the Congress rather triumphantly. "than my last walk of this kind. Then I had trudged through the rain to my father's house to get away from the obnoxious petting of Chuck Becker. Tonight I left Jerry because he was jealous of me."

What a long time it seemed since that night my father raised the roof over the Becker episode. The little country town with its gossip, pin judgments and narrow standards had passed out of my life. The last letter I had had from my mother had been filled with what she had fondly termed "the news" about people in whom I had no possible interest. I had found that some of them I did not even remember.

Was I happier now than I was then?

SUNDAY GAMES
KIMBERLY 5-1, APPLETON 1-0.

Len Smith's second home run smash in two successive trips to the plate won the aftermath of a double header between Kimberly and Appleton Sunday afternoon at Brandt park for the K-C crew. The home came in the second frame and was the only run of a hurlers' duel between Boyle and Vanderloop. In the opener Squaw Poca can hurled Kimberly to a 5-1 victory, though Sternace pitched as good a game as the southern star except in piling up a strikeout without the services of one of its most reliable hurlers and gardeners, Harvey Priebe, who was on the sick list. Inability to hit behind excellent hurler lent Appleton the games, though the Batemen played poorly on the sacks. In the opener Sternace allowed seven hits but only five until the ninth frame. Then with the game about even, he grooved the ball for both Poca and Len Smith and each got homers. Poca allowed four hits and set a loop record by fanning 16 men. The time of one hour and five minutes also set a league record. The games were the last in the league season. Kimberly took the fourth place as the result of the tilt and Appleton tied Neenah for the cellar.

In the second game Vanderloop allowed four hits and Boyle, hurling his second game in an Appleton uniform, stopped Kimberly with three but the homer was included. Hillman got two out of three hits and played a nice game in the field. He pulled down one drive off Poca's at which was labelled for two sacks.

Three errors and a hit started Kimberly in the first frame. With two down then got a life on Torno's bad throw to first, traveling all the way to second. Poca singled to deep right to score them. Poca advanced two bases on passed balls but Smith fanned.

In the second Cooke got a fluke hit and Haugen singled to center, sending him to second. On Schell's hit to center, Cooke scored and Haugen was trapped at third base. Schell advanced to second on the play at third. Schell took third on Ashman's peg to second and was scored on Haugen's scratch hit to left. Hits by Ashman and Baetz and Bent's sacrifice gave Appleton a run in the last half of the frame.

In the sixth Gosha was hit by a pitched ball with two down and was caught trying to steal second. In the seventh Poca fanned three in a row. In the eighth Boyle opened with a hit and took second when Radtke got a life on Vanderloop's error. However, helped by poor coaching, he was picked off the sack by Poca. In the ninth after Torno had hit, Ashman smashed into a double play. The only other scoring was the two four-play smacks in the ninth by Kimberly.

In the second tilt Appleton failed to threaten but Kimberly made two attempts after Smith's homer. In the sixth Smith got a life on Schaboe's error, pulling at second. Schell was hit by a pitched ball. Haugen hit to Baetz who tagged Schell home second and narrowly missed a double play. Smith went to third. Haugen stole second and on the play Ashman pulled the feature of the game. He faked a peg to second and then got Smith off third. Gosha completing the play with a snappy touchout as Len slid back to the sack. Hartjes fied out.

In the seventh Vanderloop opened with a two-bagger. Verbeten fied to center. Cooke sacrificed Vandy to third but then fanned.

MENASHA BEARS OPEN YEAR WITH HARTFORD

The Menasha Bear football team, beaten by a score of 9-6 by the Hartford Kussel Kars last fall will try a comeback at the Menasha ball park on Sept. 26. The Bears have a working hard and are in trim for a hard battle. Several new stars from the northern part of the state have been added to the Pull city line. On Oct. 3 the Bears will meet the American Legion team of Manitowoc at that city. Hartford will be met in a return game Oct. 10 and the Manitowoc squad will be played at Menasha on Oct. 17. No other games have been booked yet although arrangements are underway for a tilt with the Kenosha Twin Sixes at Menasha on Thanksgiving day. A game with Oconomowoc also is being arranged.

BUCKY HARRIS BATTED .300 ONLY ONE YEAR

Since Stanley Harris, manager and second baseman of the Washington Senators has been in the majors he's hit .300 just once. That was in 1920, his first year as a regular.

FORMER BLUE ATHLETE HEADS GRID MACHINE

Delbert "Doc" Doering, star end of the Lawrence college grid squads in 1921-1922-1923, will captain the Darlington Panthers football team this year. Doering was one of the best dropkickers the Blues have ever had. He is credited with a number of 50-50 yard dropkicks. He also starred in the outfield for Appleton and Fond du Lac in the Fox River Valley and Wisconsin State leagues. He was a good fielder and heavy hitter.

PELKEY WINS GOLF CUP FROM S. H. CLINEDINST

H. H. Pelkey captured the Butte des Morts Country club President's cup Sunday when he defeated S. H. Clinedinst, 4 and 2 in the final 36-hole grind. Pelkey came from behind to win the honors on the last 18 holes. At the 18th hole he was three down, but he made this up and was 2 up in the 27th green. The winner's name will be engraved on the cup. The trophy must be won three times to become a permanent possession.

IDLE REDS GAIN IN N. L. CHASE

Giants Squeeze Out 6-5 Win Over Leading Cards; Yanks Beat Indians

The National League pennant chase was jammed still tighter Monday with St. Louis holding a single game margin over Cincinnati. The New York Yankees had increased their lead over Cleveland in the American League to three and a half games. The New York Giants tripped the Cardinals Sunday, 6-5. Cincinnati idle for the day, burned its armor for battle with the troublesome Boston Braves on Tuesday. The Yankees beat the Indians, 8 to 3, after losing four straight to them.

The standing of the leaders follow:

	National	To
St. Louis	57	62 5 .584
Cincinnati	55	62 8 .575
New York	58	58 8 .603
Cleveland	55	62 7 .575

If the Red win the rest of their games, nothing the Cardinals can do will get them the flag. But let the Reds drop one game and St. Louis by taking all their five wins for the out. Four out of seven for the Cards and six out of seven for the Reds would end the season with a deadlock and necessitate a playoff. Hugh McQuillen took it upon himself to beat the Cardinals Sunday. With Jackson and Tyson on base in the second frame Hugh belted as a single that scored both runners. Lou Gehrig, with three doubles and a homer, sent five runs across the plate. Babe Ruth got in two smashes, one of them his forty-third homer of the season.

The faltering Pittsburgh Pirates took the final game of the season with Brooklyn, 7 to 4.

Ten innings were needed by the St. Louis Browns to nose out Philadelphia 5 to 4, six hurlers being called to the mound.

Seven pitchers performed when Detroit beat Washington 8 to 7. Walter Johnson was among the victims. Chicago trimmed Boston, 5 to 3.

Kremer and Meadows have been the big boys on the hurling mound for the pirates this year. Up to the last two weeks of the chase the pair had turned in 34 victories against 12 defeats. Kremer's mark was 17-5 and Meadows' 17-7.

Shortstops Play Large Part In World Series

BY BILLY EVANS

There is no more important position on the infield than that of shortstop. The last world series offered conclusive proof of that fact. Wright of Pittsburgh played brilliantly and the Pirates won. The usually reliable Peckinpah had a bad series and Washington lost.

Incidentally, no series ever attested more to the uncertainty of the game than the fact that Wright of Pittsburgh played brilliantly and the Pirates won. The usually reliable Peckinpah had a bad series and Washington lost.

In summing up the possibilities of that series, no one familiar with the steadiness of Peckinpah, expressed the opinion that erratic play on his part might lose it.

Glenn Wright of Pittsburgh is unquestionably one of the greatest, if not the greatest, shortstop in the majors. He goes to his right or left with equal ease, covers a world of ground, therefore makes plenty of errors, has a great arm and excels on double plays.

What more could you ask of a shortstop? Injured early in August at Boston, he was out of the game for a month and it seemed as if the Pirates immediately went into a decline as he passed from the lineup.

Wright is a big rangy fellow and is a good hitter. He bats right-handed. Tommy Thevenow of the St. Louis Cardinals is much the opposite of Wright in physique but no less capable. The midget Cardinal goes after everything and is noted for his ability to make sensational plays as a result.

While Tom's batting hardly rates up to his prowess as a fielder, he is far from soft picking. He is one of those players who has a tendency to get most of his base hits in players rates on a par with Wright.

HE GOES VANCE ON E BETTER

"SNIPE" CONLEY "MITTING" SEVEN BALLS

Dallas, Tex.—"So Dazzy Vance has the biggest hands in baseball, eh?" queried Manager "Snips" Conley of the Dallas Steers, as he looked at a newspaper photo of the big Brooklyn pitcher holding six baseballs in one hand.

"Going on those figures, I guess I'm at least a titleholder—I can hold seven,"

The scribes questioned Conley, who was the crack spitball pitcher of the Texas League for ten years up to the current season, when his wing went bad on him. Conley proved his case by unwrapping seven brand new balls, clamping them all in his big right mitt and holding them there long enough for a photographer to "pick him off." There's no glue, pegs or strings attached.

Incidentally, Conley serving his first full season as a baseball manager, is after the championship of all Dixieland. He sends his Dallas club against the New Orleans Pelicans, Southern Association champs, in the annual Dixie series, which will get under way Sept. 22.

C. O. F. BOWLERS ORGANIZE LEAGUE

Organization of the C. O. F. bowling league for 1926 was started at a meeting of Forester Keglers Friday evening. Six teams will take the drives this year. The teams will take the names of the members chosen at the meeting were Hickories, Furs, Elms, Oaks, Pines and Cedars.

The season will start Thursday evening Oct. 7 on the Elk alleys and games will be rolled each Thursday. Any Forester interested in being placed on a team is requested to call Ray Dohr at 857 or 252 or John Bauer at 1364, after 6 p. m. Final plans for the league will be made at a meeting next week.

SELL RESERVED SEATS TO GAMES IN ADVANCE

Alumni of Lawrence college and out of town grid fans will be able to reserve seats for the 1926 Blue football games in advance, according to Fred Tresize, faculty athletic manager. The fans can make the reservations by writing Mr. Tresize, and enclosing a check for $1.50 to cover reserved seats. General admission is $1. The tickets will be sent to the applicants by return mail.

KREMER AND MEADOWS BIG AID TO PIRATES

Kremer and Meadows have been the big boys on the hurling mound for the pirates this year. Up to the last two weeks of the chase the pair had turned in 34 victories against 12 defeats. Kremer's mark was 17-5 and Meadows' 17-7.

PACKERS SWAMP DETROIT, 21-0

Classy Passing Attack of Bay Blues Outclasses Star Panther Gridders

Green Bay—A smooth working Packer machine handed the Detroit Panthers a 21 to 0 defeat in a pro football league crowd.

The big Bay Blues easily outclassed Conzelmann's aggregation. After the first quarter, the much feared Detroit outfit took a first class gridiron lesson from the Badger state champions. Detroit made but three first downs.

Detroit started off fast and a forward pass put the cowhide down in Packer territory, but that was the only sport of the invaders. The Bays settled down and regained the ball. From then on it was the Packers' game.

A long pass about the middle of the second quarter, enabled O'Donnell to dash across for a touchdown. Early in the third period, another aerial toss with Lewellen on the receiving end, counted another touchdown, and Lambeau added the extra point. About the middle of the final round, O'Donnell grabbed one out of the air for the final counter. Once again Lambeau dropkicked for the extra point.

BLUE GAME HEADS RIPON GRID CARD

Catlinmen Feature Red Homecoming Celebration; Doehling Has 70 in Suits

Ripon—(P)—Football prospects at Ripon college appear bright. Forty men already have reported for daily practice, with another 30 yet to arrive. The Crimson eleven faces a hard schedule, however, in the opinion of Coach Carl Doehling.

Of the seven games scheduled, one is to be played in neutral territory when Hamline university of St. Paul plays Ripon at Fond du Lac on October 2. Business organization there are reported to be financing the project.

The biggest game here from the standpoint of interest and attendance will be against Lawrence on October 23, the Ripon college homecoming. Perhaps the most powerful competition Ripon will meet during the season, however, will be at Mt. Vernon, Iowa, on October 16, when the Chilton team meets last year's conference champions, Cornell college. Beloit will play here in the final Midwest game on Nov. 30.

Two Little Five conference games complete the season, Northwestern of Watertown here October 2, and Lake Forest in Illinois on Nov. 14, both institutions having strong teams this year.

BADGER INELIGIBLES TO PLAY IN VIRGINIA

Marquette—Clarence Barofsky and Michael Kresky, both famous football players of the Marquette High school, will enroll at Davis Elkins college, West Virginia, this year, it was learned here Sunday. Barofsky is already there and wired Kresky to join him there, where they will play shoulder to shoulder.

Both attended the University of Wisconsin last year. Barofsky has been at the state university two years and two summer seasons without being able to gain eligibility—for varsity athletics.

RAIN HALTS PLAY IN INTERCLUB GOLF MATCH

"Leaky skies" spoiled a perfectly good afternoon's fun for about 30 members of Butte des Morts Country club Saturday when they teamed up with members of the Fox River Country club. The last pair had just teed off when the storm broke, sending the linksmen to the clubhouse. The match probably will not be played according to P. C. Wesco, leader of the Appleton team. In the first match the two clubs played here, the local men won by a large margin.

KERS CLINCH A. A. FLAG BY SPLIT WITH BREWERS

Louisville—The Colonels drove the last spike to make the 1926 American association pennant safe by whipping the Brewers in the first game of a double header Sunday, 7 to 2. Before the second largest crowd of the season here, 14,103, the new champions pounded their way to an easy victory over Bubba Jonnard, the last obstacle in their path. By way of retribution, the Brewers were permitted to take a 6 to 4 decision in the six inning after piece.

DURABILITY OF GENE'S HANDS IS BIG QUESTION

Challenger Has Had Trouble With Mits in Every Bout With Rushing Foe

BY JOE WILLIAMS
Stroudsburg, Pa.—(P)—How about Gene Tunney's hands? Are they strong enough to stand the jolting and bruising and crashing that inevitably is necessary in a fight with a rushing, mauling fighter like Dempsey?

That's an important question. To my mind it is just about the most important you can ask in connection with the nearing battle, unless you ask for two ringside seats, which is, of course, entirely out of the question.

The condition of any fighter's hands in any fight always is important. In Tunney's case it is particularly important because he has a native habit of busting a knuckle on a hostile forehead or elbow at the slightest provocation.

At one time in his career, it may be recalled, Tunney had to quit the ring for six months and go into the woods as a lumberman to strengthen and toughen his hands, so susceptible were they to cracks, breaks, fissures and gradual decay.

His trouble primarily was that he had devoted the early years of his youth to office work. He had "clerk hands," not fighter hands. On top of this he started out punching wrong. It is almost impossible to break a hand if you are punching right. Tunney didn't learn this trick until some years later.

Tunney's hands have been stronger and in better condition the last two years than ever before. Still, they haven't acquired exactly a cast-iron hardness nor a positive invulnerability. He learned that in the last fight he had nine months ago against John Risko, when he suffered small fractures in both his right and left hands.

Now Risko happens to be a fighter fashioned somewhat after the Dempsey type. He comes cascading at you in one tumultuous wave with both hands pepping. It is not hard to bust a hand on this kind of a fighter. Nor is it hard to bust a hand against Dempsey.

Tunney told me after the Risko fight the reason he hadn't stopped the bounding buster was that his two hands had gone back on him. Fortunately, Tunney outlasted Risko so far in boxing ability and ring craft that he was able to keep him at his distance with a few well chosen gestures.

But Risko and Dempsey, like arsenic and tapioca pudding, are two different propositions. If Tunney has the misfortune to break one of his hands against Dempsey early in the fight he will need more than a mending scowl and a mute threat to keep him away from the rattled almonds and demitasse.

Tunney assures me his hands will stand the test this time. He took me into his living room here at the Glenbrook Country Club and let me watch him go through an extensive routine of finger and hand work designed specifically to add new robustness to his fighting weapons.

This consisted mainly of lying full length on the floor and lowering and raising the upper part of his body while using only the outstretched, stiffened fingers for support.

Like all fighters, too, he is constantly using finger grips. Even while he sits and talks he has the grips in his hands, opening and closing them continuously as he repeats his expressions of confidence of winning from the champion.

"I think I have worked harder to strengthen and develop my hands for this fight than anything else," Tunney admits.

The full moon nearest to September 21 is popularly known as the "harvest moon," because it rises for several consecutive evenings at nearly the same time, giving an unusual number of moonlight nights.

Did you ever figure out how much this amounts to in five years or ten years. Take paper and pencil and work out the amount. It will surprise you. It would go far toward paying for your home.

So why not stop putting your rent money in someone else's pocket and build a home of your own?

The first step is to decide on plans—and in this we are ready to help. Our Washington Information Bureau has for distribution a booklet showing exterior views and floor plans of 60 brick houses that are masterpieces of the architect's skill.

Hoople Tells How Tunney Luckily Knocked Him Out

BY MAJOR HOOPLE
Former Sports Editor of the Bombay India Relish

Stroudsburg, Pa.—(P)—Egad, friends, today I am able to recount to you the most novel of experiences I have been knocked out.

It all happened in a most peculiar and accidental way. The other day, while in conversation with Gene Tunney, I happened to remark that for seven years I was the champion heavyweight of the Hebrews. Mr. Tunney was delighted and requested me to don the gloves for a bit of sparring, to which I readily assented.

"If you find the time suspended heavily upon your hands, Major," was the way Mr. Tunney put it, "would you not condescend to assume the raiment of the arena and commingle with me in the donation and acceptance of several impacts?"

"Oh, indeed, Egad, yes, yes," I responded to the scholarly young pugilist's invitation to the boxing. Mr. Tunney, I discover is profusely eloquent, marvelously so.

"It shall be my constant endeavor not to be very atavistic," Mr. Tunney said next. "Uppermost in my mind shall be the consideration of the excess of winters and summers your pompous figure has experienced over my own somewhat Neanderthal physique."

And, with this overture, we set to trading wallops.

We had scarcely boxed a moment when, with a vicious punch (I had hitherto intended to unleash the full strength of my arm) I opened a very tender spot on Tunney's lip, causing considerable gore to spill therefrom.

Several ladies in the crowd swooned at the bloody spectacle. Looking over my shoulder I noticed that they had fainted and I waved to my second to take them some of the cold water from my corner.

That signal was the last mental image my faculties now are able to recall. It seems that Mr. Tunney, not understanding my attitude, essayed to deal a blow of considerable violence to my chin, and I, being off my guard completely, fell to the ground. Egad, it was the very same punch, by the way which I had taught Mr. Dempsey a few days previously.

After half a day in the quiet of a hospital room I southered out for a stroll about the camp. It really has been amazing to me how quickly my here, on all sides I was met by anxious followers of the ring sport, who feverishly sought my opinion as to the merits of the two pugilists who are to clash next Thursday.

I have given the crowd several valuable tips on how to wager on the affair.

Tonight I met one of the quaint characters who has attached himself to the challenger's camp. His name is Lawrence, Egad, Pants Lawrence, I believe. Mr. Lawrence regaled me with many accounts of his adventures as an Adirondack guide, while I told of my romantic wanderings in Abyssinia.

Mr. Lawrence, like myself, is a man of the outdoors. He told me of kissing several bears, and of solving his bare hands. I must say, out of respect for the man that I was able to match this performance only by relating the struggle I and a few natives had with a herd of elephants in Siam.

We captured the herd, consisting of about 200 bulls, alive, by throwing pepper into their faces. Their violent sneezes caused the trees of the forest to fall in a natural way about them. (Copyright 1926, NEA Service Inc.)

CHURCH EDUCATION

TOPIC OF MEETING

Discussion of parish education and finances will be led by Rev. H. S. Gately, Appleton, at the annual conference of the Fond du Lac district of the Episcopal church at Rhinelander Sept. 22 and 23. The Rev. J. M. Johnson and the Rev. Francis S. Lamb will assist in leading the discussion.

The general program of the church for the period from 1925 to 1928 will be outlined to the clergy and laymen who attend the conference. Two delegates from each woman's auxiliary, two laymen from each congregation and all the clergy of the diocese are expected to attend the meeting.

Bishop Weller will deliver the opening address at a dinner in the evening of Sept. 22. The program includes several addresses by prominent speakers. Organizing Men and Boys for Service is to be the subject under discussion at the first meeting.

PRIMARY COSTS WILL CUT LARGE FIGURE IN FALL

Question Is Expected to Attract More Than Ordinary Attention in Congress

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington—The question of primary election expenses will loom very importantly in Congress next winter.

The question of regular November election expenses will loom, too, if the course of the present campaign. The probabilities are, however, that this will be an unusually economical campaign, not an expensive one. Election expenses are a liability just now, not an asset.

With the Lorimer and Newberry cases still in mind, candidates for Congress know they must spend as much on the postprimary campaign as they can. If they do, they're aware that they're liable not to get their seats after they've paid for them.

But the argument has been that primary expenses are none of Congress' business—that primaries are elections for the respective state legislatures to regulate, not the national legislature.

However, the lost in the adjournment jam has sure to come up in December—are in now, by which Congress does undertake to regulate primaries.

They'll be fought on the ground that they're an attempt at federal interference in state affairs, but it will take a pretty nifty congressman to go clear to the mat against them after the Pennsylvania and Illinois scandals. Maybe they'll pass and the supreme court will pass them out. The supreme court is probably impervious to public opinion, but Congress isn't.

They'll come up, anyway, and make trouble.

Primary nominations are sure to be bitterly attacked.

Still, the general trend, in the last few weeks, seems to have been somewhat in their favor. All who originally believed in them continue to believe in them. Not all who formerly stood pat for the convention system want to go back to it.

Primaries have not made for statesmanship—the old kind, which disregarded public opinion. It's made for politicians who keep their ears mightily close to the ground. They act cowardly, but at least they're responsive.

The row over primary expenditures has been confined, thus far, to senatorial candidates.

It may break out in the House of Representatives, too, next winter.

A candidate for representative doesn't spend as much on his campaign as a candidate for senator does, partly because it isn't worth quite as much and partly because, in most districts, he hasn't as large a territory to spend it in.

Nevertheless, he can spend a good deal, and if he has it may be inquired into. Nothing is quite so contagious as investigations.

As to the investigation angle of the proposition:

What has next winter's session of Congress—the tail-end of the 69th Congress—got to do with elections to the 70th?

It seems as if "nothing whatever" was the answer, but quite a few authorities hold otherwise. Their contention is that, the minute a senator or a representative is declared elected, Congress has a right to pass on the validity of his election.

It doesn't sound very logical—or constitutional. All the same, even a beaten congressman has his feelings.

At his wintery session it's a consolation to him to make it appear that he was defeated unfairly. Primary corruption being in the atmosphere, it's fair to assume it will be made the most of.

POSTAL ROBBERS DOOMED BY WRIT

Government Clerks Ordered to "Shoot to Kill" in War on Vandals

"Shoot to Kill" is the order received at the Appleton Postoffice from the United States Postal department Friday. The order was issued, according to the information received, because of the renewed activities of the bandits and members of the underworld against postal mail carriers.

A reward of $500 has been personally offered by second assistant postmaster W. Irving Glover to the first postal clerk who kills anyone attempting to rob a railway postoffice. A reward has also been offered to the clerk capturing anyone who attempts to hold up a railway postoffice.

"The United States mails must be protected and I am depending on you men to do it," says Mr. Glover in his order, "by shooting to kill everyone who attempts to interfere with the mails. The mail must go through at all costs." It is hoped that this drastic order will bring about the desired results and robberies of the U. S. mails will cease.

Appleton clerks have been instructed to follow these orders implicitly, according to Postmaster William H. Zuehlke, by depositing the surplus of been armed. The dangers of a robbery in Appleton have been reduced to a minimum, according to Mr. Zuehlke, by depositing the surplus of stamps and cash in a local bank. However, Appleton clerks have been doubly warned to "Shoot to Kill" anyone who attempts to interfere with the mail.

BUILDING PERMITS

Construction of one residence, one garage and two miscellaneous projects at an estimated cost of $5,600 were authorized Friday by the city building inspector. The permits were granted to Charles Prasher for a porch and addition to a residence at 1230 S. Mason-st., John VanOoyen for a residence at 224 E. Circle-st., Kimberly Real Estate Co. for a garage at 128 N. Leomin-wah-st., and T. H. Warren for removal of a garage at 19 Sherman-pl.

DEMOCRATS AND DRYS HOLD PARTY MEETINGS

Madison—(P)—Democrats and Prohibitionists are preparing to hold their platform conventions here Tuesday, with incomplete official returns of the recent primary indicating that candidates of the former, at least, will have a place on the general election ballot in November.

Official returns from 61 of the 71 counties in the state with Milwaukee among those who had all reported last week, gave Virgil Cady, Democratic candidate for governor, 10,618 votes; W. G. Evenson, for lieutenant governor, 10,431; A. C. Wolfe, for secretary of state, 10,321; F. J. Grunza, for state treasurer, 10,263; David Gardner, Jr., for attorney general, 10,149. Slightly less than 16,000 votes are necessary for the Democratic candidates to have a place on the November ballot.

The Prohibitionists are confident that their candidates received enough votes in the primary to nominate them, as only a few votes were required.

Kenosha police have asked the Appleton force to assist in locating the following cars stolen from the former city: B-182-538, Ford touring, and B-9485, Ford coupe.

Postmaster Warns Against Placing Circulars in Rural Receptacles

A warning against placing advertising circulars or other similar material in rural mail boxes has been issued by Postmaster William H. Zuehlke. Frequent finding of such materials in those boxes by the mail carriers necessitates the issuing of this warning.

The mail boxes are intended exclusively for the reception of mail. Postmaster Zuehlke points out, and any other mailable matter as circulars, sale bills and others, deposited in them is subject to the rules governing the mails. This includes proper addressing and the payment of postage at regular rates.

The regulations provide that when a rural carrier finds such materials deposited in the boxes on his route addressed to or intended for the person in whose box it is deposited he shall take such matter to the distributing postoffice to be held for postage and treated as prescribed in the regulations. Although city mail boxes are not under supervision in the same manner as rural boxes, Postmaster Zuehlke, points out that these boxes also, are intended for regular mails only.

THE ONLY trouble with classified opportunities is that they are often snapped up before indolent people get around to answer them.

"This World Is So Full Of A Number Of Things"

And nearly all of them are listed at some time or other in the systematically arranged columns of the Post-Crescent's A-B-C Classified Section.

There is hardly any limit to the variety of the offers which make up these columns. If it's something you want-if it's something people buy and sell-you'll find it in the classified columns-today or some other day.

That's why you should watch these ever-changing, never-ending opportunities every single day.

If you read the classified ads nearly every day, but not every day-the BIG opportunity of a lifetime may pass through them the very day you pass by them.

Reading the A-B-C Classified Section every day assures you of being present every time that opportunities are being distributed!

PUBLIC TO GET BETTER MOVIES

Directors Are Preparing to Produce More Artistic Pictures for Fans

Hollywood, Calif.—(AP)—The motion picture industry is prepared to produce artistic pictures just as soon as the public is in the proper mood to accept them. This is the consensus of producers and directors and the hope for movement, they say, also has the approval of scenarists and players as well. Clarence Brown, director, supports Jesse Lasky in voicing the opinion that "the public will not get better pictures until they demand them."

A so-called artistic playboy would go right over the head of the average movie patron," he says, "and would mean at present almost certain financial failure for the sponsor. Educating the public to better pictures must be gradual. The movie people are eager to improve the quality of their product but are held back by lack of support for advanced ideas and thought." Brown cited several pictures that he placed within the category of the artistic. Some patrons described them as the finest produced, but the box office result was a sad disappointment. Others brought forth newspaper praise but the pictures failed to draw the line at show time.

WIDOWS AND WIDOWERS WILL "GET ACQUAINTED"

Elyria, O.—(AP)—The lonely members of the Widows and Widowers club, an organization which grew from a small Elyria house gathering four years ago into a correspondence club of national scope, will lay down their pens in October and come to Elyria to get personally acquainted. Mrs. Nellie B. Stull, grand president and founder, is arranging plans for the first convention.

"I never realized there was so much loneliness in the world," said Mrs. Stull, who has received hundreds of proposals herself since she started her match making enterprise by inviting Elyria's widows and widowers to her Third Street home. "I got the idea from some pathetic wallflower scenes at our local dances. I had a hobby and I fostered it. Then it grew like a snowball in a storm of publicity."

Of the thirty-two charter members all except Mrs. Stull have deserted the ranks through marriage. She estimates the number of successful marriages she has promoted at 250 and she says she has more than 1,000 "lonely souls" corresponding at the present time.

MASTERPIECE IN WOOD

New London, Conn.—Fourteen thousand pieces of wood, of fourteen different varieties, have been formed into a small table by J. N. LaPointe, retired manufacturer. It took him 1,500 hours of labor, he says. The top contains the flags of the United States, Ireland, England, France, Italy, Canada, Turkey and Germany. Wooden pegs were used instead of nails.

TEACHER HUNTS RADIO TROUBLES

Mystery of Crystal Detector Is Studied by Professor of Physics

Ithaca, N. Y.—(AP)—The mystery of the crystal detector now is being subjected to an intensive study by Professor Ernest Merritt, head of the Cornell physics department, who believes important results hinge upon the solution. Familiar to all radio enthusiasts, this simple little device has been known to physicists for 20 years, but no one has been able to explain its action satisfactorily.

"Most crystal detectors," said Professor Merritt, "are natural minerals of rather complicated composition and very likely to be impure. In my study of the subject I am trying to simplify the problem by using elements which are as nearly as possible chemically pure, instead of complicated compounds."

"I have found that selenium and germanium are excellent detectors, and confidently expect that several other elements will show similar action. The most promising theory of the crystal's action now seems to be something as follows: 'If current passes from germanium to a metal contact the electrons must cross the minute space that separates the element from the other metal, and in order to do this the electrons must be pulled out of the germanium.'"

"If a current goes the other way they must be pulled from the other metal. It may be that it is harder to pull them out of one metal than the other so that the current flows more rapidly in one direction than in the other."

"If some explanation of this sort is the correct one it may prove that a study of this simple little device may help very materially in giving us a better understanding of the behavior of electrons in metals and of the structure in crystalline materials."

SCRATCH PLOVER EGGS OFF ENGLISH MENUS

Glasgow—(AP)—Plover eggs, for centuries a delicacy of kings, have been scratched from all menus in Scotland. Plover eggs long have been immensely popular in England, being served only at the expensive establishments, but public feeling has been aroused against robbing the nests for the markets and in twenty-eight Scottish counties the bird is now entitled to absolute protection.

SWEDISH CASTLE HAS MODERN HEATING PLANT

Stockholm—(AP)—The inhabitants of old Swedish castles enjoyed modern comforts more than four centuries ago. The castle of Glimmingehus, one of Sweden's most famous country seats, built in 1493, contained a central heating plant in the basement, with conduits through the walls, discovered by representatives of the Royal Swedish Academy of Antiquities. This is believed to be the oldest installation of its kind in Northern Europe. Breakfast in bed also apparently was enjoyed by the master and mistress of the castle as speaking tubes were found leading from their bedrooms to the kitchen.

PUBLISHERS SAY BOOKS OF POEMS BECOME POPULAR

Chicago Dealers Amazed at How Fast Reading Public Buys Books of Verses

Chicago—(AP)—The ancient complaint of publishers that poetry does not sell has been disproved here by some recent remarkable sales records. Publishers, booksellers and literary critics have watched with amazement a several late volumes of verse have disappeared over the counter with the rapidity of a hot selling novel.

Editors have been sold out overnight even before publication, and in one instance involving a book containing both poetry and prose, presses for a time were unable to carry the load placed upon them.

Most of these statistics have been tributes to the popular appeal of newspaper "columns", in which many of the collected verses appeared. A few years ago the name of J. U. Nicolson was unknown to the literary world. So his friends and associates knew his interest was wrapped up in the storage business. Then one day a poem signed with the intriguing pseudonym, "The King of the Black Isles," appeared in The Line O' Type of the Chicago Tribune. That poem a lyric in the melodious manner of the Swinburnian school, attracted considerable attention. Soon others of the same type and bearing the same signature appeared in that and other newspaper columns.

Presently it was announced that "The King of the Black Isles" was J. U. Nicolson and that a volume of his verse was to appear with his pen name as title. The publishers hesitatingly printed a modest edition. It did not last long. The volume is now in its tenth printing.

A few months ago another interesting poetic record was made. Some years ago when the late Bert Leston Taylor was plotting the "Line," he printed a number of poems in German-American dialect signed by K. M. S. Except for an interval during the war these poems continued to appear in various columns and finally were gathered in a book, "Die Schöne Longevität." The author was Kurt M. Stein. A certain edition of 500 copies was put out. It is now in its eighteenth thousand.

Another more modest record has just been made, but for poetry it is not without interest. Another popular contributor to Chicago newspaper columns was "The Phantom Lover." Along about St. Valentine's Day the author, Henry V. Stevenson, gathered his verses in a book, with "The Phantom Lover" as the title. Three editions of a thousand each were sent to press in a few days. But probably the most remarkable record of all was established by "The Lips Book," made up of contributions of poetry and prose to the Line O' Type. Eleven thousand copies of the 1925 edition were printed as a starter and before nightfall of the day they were ordered on sale the edition was exhausted. Sales now are well past the 100,000 mark and steadily climbing.

NEW YORK ABOUNDS IN BOARDING SCHOOLS

New York—(AP)—Girls' private schools so abound in New York that it seems there must be a school for every girl, but the plenteousness of pupils is demonstrated by the new homes being erected by two of them this summer.

These schools for the most part cluster around Riverside Drive and adjacent streets, usually occupying of residences. Like other private schools, they often are specialized. Some train only the girls of kindergarten age, while others give the "finishing" touches to debutantes or prepare them for college.

SMOKING O. K.

There is no use sighing for the great artists of long ago, for the great of today are just as great. Mr. Bassett said, "And moral status of those connected with operatic life has immeasurably improved through the years."

"We would not say who we like best but Gail Curci was one of the sweetest characters—almost angelic at all times."

Lately some of the spectacular use of hydraulic rams, mostly in German operas as the association scene in Faust have been superseded by the use of lights. Marguerite may ascend to heaven more effectively, under the play of electric lights, than at the top of the hydraulic, he declared.

If the women of Pittsburgh, Calif., want to smoke they'll meet with no opposition from the town's new woman mayor, Mrs. Mattie Chandler, who says she doesn't care for reform movements. She celebrated the day of her inauguration by cooking breakfast for her family and washing the dishes before going to her office.

OOOOH!

"Oooh"—Master Robbin Cleland, grandson of General John I. Hines, chief of U. S. army staff, is impressed. Heq wants to see that birdie the photographer tells about.

ACTING, SCENERY AID SUCCESS OF GRAND OPERAS

Veteran Prop Man Tells of Big Strides Made in Settings of Productions

Chicago—(AP)—A quarter of a century devoted to giving grand opera the variety of background which opera demands, has entered here for John Ambrose Bassett, master of hydraulic apparatus under the stage at the auditorium. "Fast changes have been wrought in my time," he said the day he resigned, past 70 years of age. "Forty years ago the opera going public was satisfied with music. Today it demands sight as well as sound, a spectacle with music, and that the singers be actors and actresses as well."

"When I first heard 'The Lady of Lyons' 50 years ago, one of the leading characters came on stage with his shoe music in his hand. That would not be tolerated today. Even rapturous singing such as our Chicago Civic opera has had, is not enough. The public demands scenery with the singing."

"Demand for scenery gave me a job. I've heard all the operas here, but I've under the stage with my hydraulic apparatus, trapdoors and pits. Only once did my hydraulic rams slip at such a time as to give me a memorable experience. It supported the stairway outside a house in a mountainside town. The stair rail broke. As I was mending it Mme. Calve, the soprano, approached me."

DEMAND WITH MADAME CALVE

"Where's my dressing room?" she demanded.

"What's the number?" I asked.

"Don't ask me what the number is," she stamped.

"Don't ask me where it is then," I said.

"There is no use sighing for the great artists of long ago, for the great of today are just as great." Mr. Bassett said, "And moral status of those connected with operatic life has immeasurably improved through the years."

"We would not say who we like best but Gail Curci was one of the sweetest characters—almost angelic at all times."

Lately some of the spectacular use of hydraulic rams, mostly in German operas as the association scene in Faust have been superseded by the use of lights. Marguerite may ascend to heaven more effectively, under the play of electric lights, than at the top of the hydraulic, he declared.

NATIONAL FOREST BOASTS WILD LIFE

Duluth, Minn.—(AP)—Primeval forests, where moose, deer and bear roam, and eagles fly, may still be found untouched by logger's axe, in parts of the Superior National Forest. Situated along the Canadian boundary line, just west of Lake Superior in Lake and Cook counties, the National forest covers 1,250,000 acres. Each year some mature timber is harvested, but it is all done under direction of the U. S. Forest Service, by private companies. No more is cut than the annual growth, so the forest may be perpetuated, and much of the vast district has never heard the ring of an axe.

TO REBUILD PARTHENON

New York—Several columns of the Parthenon at Athens will be rebuilt into their original positions as the result of the contributions of Americans. The columns were blown from their places in 1687 by the explosion of a Turkish powder magazine within the temple by a Venetian shell. Ellin Roney was among the group who gave money for the restoration.

KIEL, WAR BASE OF GERMANS, IS VASTLY CHANGED

Kaiser Would Find Poignant Contract Between Past and Present, if He Returned

Kiel, Germany—Nowhere would the Kaiser, were he to return to his country, find a more poignant contrast between the present and the past than in Kiel.

William II was the creator of this powerful naval fastness, with its huge docks and all the apparatus of shipbuilding and repair. He was the builder of the formidable fortifications defending the sea approaches. This was the scene of some of his great moments when as commander-in-chief of the fleet he steamed into the harbor as rounds of applause poured from dozens of guns.

To-day the harbor looks empty. The forts are partly dismantled. The naval academy is closed. The castle in which Prince Henry, the Kaiser's brother, lived is an office building. The Yacht Club house, presented by the elder Krupp, is now a scientific institute. It was there the Kaiser, surrounded by his admirals and generals, made many an utterance that caused flutters in foreign chancelleries. Everywhere are suggestions of decay and neglect and change.

The Kaiser has not been here since that afternoon of June 28, 1914, when he was occupied with arrangements respecting the regatta. An aide delivered a despatch, saying that Archduke Franz Ferdinand and his wife had been assassinated at Sarajevo.

"Now, I must do everything over again," wept the Emperor's words. Flags were ordered half mast. He terminated the regatta, sent messages to Winston Churchill who was on an English boat in the harbor, to the Prince of Monaco on his yacht and to others invited to dinner that evening, composed a telegram to Franz Joseph and took a special train for Berlin.

Prince Henry comes to Kiel occasionally but not often since he left it in a closed automobile flying a red flag when the revolution broke here in the early days of November, 1918. This manner of leaving is the subject of adverse gossip among the townspeople. They say also that his democratic manner which made him a popular personage has changed; that he is now distant, brusque, somewhat bitter in speech. The Prince lives on his estate Hemmelsmark near Eckendorf, not far from Kiel. Thine sailor or prince has become greatly interested in his farming and stock raising and shows his visitors fine cattle with as much pleasure as he formerly took in equipment of his flagship.

WILD ANIMALS HINDER GOLF GAME IN RHODESIA

Bulawayo, British South Africa—Wild animals from the jungles have been hindering golf in Rhodesia. Sharp shooters have been posted on some of the links with the view of shooting away the pesky beasts.

At the Winkie course a Rhinoceros has been appearing as a natural hazard, much to the discouragement of the players, while two lions have been seen frequently sauntering about the links at Mera. One of these was afterwards shot by the men on outpost duty.

Between Beira and Dondo two grown elephants and a baby elephant, trapped onto the main highway line and nearly wrecked a train. One of the animals was killed, and the "elephant" catcher of the locomotive was smashed.

Snus have, in their cities, granaries, dairies, playrooms, and rooms in which other insects are kept as pets.

TEXAN WOMAN DRIVES HOOTCH MAKERS TO WALL

Disposes of 34 Victorious Cases for Government in First Appearance

Dallas, Tex.—(AP)—The woes of the bootlegger in the Southwest may not be more heartrending than elsewhere, but he has one that is more persistent than any other. Her name is Mrs. Sarah Corey Meneses and she is assistant United States district attorney for this section of Texas.

Federal liquor prosecutions here are in the hands of this relentless little woman, whose only request when she accepts the case is that she be given a man's work. She was taken at her word, and for more than a year she has been responsible for driving the clandestine hootch traffic deeper into cover.

There is one thing she will not tolerate. She will not be called "a little lady." A Dallas police captain called at the district attorney's office, looked about the office and announced he wanted to see "a man lawyer."

"Well, I'm the assistant district attorney, won't I do?" said Mrs. Meneses, who was the only person in the office.

The police captain hesitated; it was something new in the he-man state. "Well, you see, little lady."

He got no further. About five feet of femininity rose up to its full height, and a fist came down hard on the desk.

"Don't you 'little lady' me," she said. "You men might as well understand now that I'm not going to be just a clerk here. I'm assistant United States district attorney and I'm going to practice law just like a man does."

The police and others since have found that she was a prophet in her own ballroom. What she said has all come true.

At her first appearance in Federal court before Federal Judge William Atwell, exalted ruler of the Elks, she disposed of thirty-four liquor cases with the assistance of Shelby S. Faulkner, another assistant U. S. attorney, and every case was a victory for the government.

CHARLESTON FAD STRIKES BERLIN

Although a Year Late Crazes Hits Dancers With Unusual Vigor

Berlin—(AP)—The Charleston is just beginning to assume proportions of a ballroom craze in Berlin, one year after being imported from the United States.

The Dancing Masters' Association has announced that the reserve of dancers has at last been broken down and that by "Charlestoning" they no longer need feel they are putting on an exhibition performance.

The Charleston is none too popular on the stage. Five hundred members of the Wandervogel, a New Youth organization, recently precipitated a riot when they demanded that Miss Wicket Werkmeister be "thrown" from the stage. "Do you call that art?" flared the theater. Scores of fist fights developed. Police stopped the show and cleared the theater.

BISHOP SAYS "ABOLISH INDIAN RESERVATIONS"

Sioux Falls, S. D.—(AP)—The white man knows simply as "bishop" to the Sioux Indians believes that the sooner the reservation is abolished and the red and white races amalgamated, the better it will be for the Indian.

The Rt. Rev. Hugh Latimer Burleson, missionary bishop of South Dakota of the Episcopal church, speaks from a background of thirty years residence and work among the Indians. "I do not mean amalgamation through inter-marriage but the absorption of the Indian population in the cities, towns and country of the white man's world," the Bishop explained.

In predicting that thirty years would bring the absorption of the Indian by civilization, Bishop Burleson said he spoke only for the Sioux Indians. Different conditions, he said, may exist among the Indians of other states.

Few Indians today live according to native customs, he added. Bishop Burleson does not believe that they should have a college education for they do not need it.

"Vocational schools serve the purpose well," the missionary said, explaining that most of the Indians turn to farming or stock raising.

Concerning recent criticism of the governmental conduct of Indian affairs Bishop Burleson asserted that if the government would take a little more counsel from people who know the Indian and less from politicians, he came out better.

DELICATESSENS THRIVE ON MID-NIGHT DANCERS

New York—(AP)—Eating is not a popular sport in supper clubs, but several hours of dancing whet appetites early in the morning and then the delicatessens thrive. One of these at Fifty-eighth-st on the east side is noted as the meeting place for celebrities from all divisions of the theatrical, motion picture and political fields.

The piece d' resistance is a "cannibal sandwich" of raw meats and onion, though it is doubtful if one of these could be given a patron in daylight hours.

324 FRESHMEN REGISTERED AT LOCAL COLLEGE

Upper Classmen to Register
With Advisory Council
Tuesday Morning

Registration of freshmen at Lawrence college took place Monday afternoon at the college. There will be 324 members of the class this year, it was announced at the college office. This is as large a class as has ever been enrolled at the school, it was said.

Requirement for entrance have been raised this year and a larger number of applicants were refused admittance because of their high school scholastic records. Only the upper three-fourths of the graduating classes from the high schools are accepted.

Upper classes at the college, including those who registered last spring, will be registered by the upper class advisory council Tuesday and classes will start Wednesday morning. A special matriculation day program has been planned for the first class meeting on Wednesday morning. Dr. A. A. Trever will speak at this service.

RULE, PRIM MAY ATTEND MEETING

Appleton Officials May Study
City Problems at Social Conference

Mayor Albert C. Rule and George T. Prim, chief of police, may attend the Social and Civic Work conference to be conducted Oct. 3, 4, 5 and 6 at Milwaukee under auspices of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work and The Milwaukee Central Council of Social Agencies. Invitations to the conference were received by them Monday.

The sessions of the public administration division probably would attract most of their time. Three important meetings of the division are scheduled, the program indicates. One will be on budget and financial control, the second will deal with traffic regulation and control, while the third will have to do with zoning.

Each gathering will be held in the form of a round table discussion at which particular local problems may be brought up for consideration. It is hoped to formulate a report dealing with a uniform practice with reference to each problem which can be followed in all Wisconsin cities, according to the notice received here from Ford H. MacGregor, chief of the Municipal Information Bureau. Representatives from the tax commission and a number of finance officials will sit in on the budget meeting, the traffic engineers of the highway commission, the engineer of the National Safety Council and many traffic men of note will be present at the traffic conference, and Mr. Chase of Chicago, city planning and zoning engineer and other zoning authorities will attend the zoning conference.

DEATHS

FRED GRUBE
Fred Grube, 73, died at 9:45 Monday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Rooks, 521 N. Tonka-st. Mr. Grube was born in Germany and came to Appleton about 43 years ago and had lived here since. Survivors are two daughters, Mrs. William Rooks and Mrs. Henry Brookhysen, Appleton.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 Thursday afternoon from the home and at 2 o'clock at Zion Lutheran church. The Rev. Theo. Marth will have charge of the services. Interment will be made at Riverside cemetery.

MRS. MATHILDA SCHUBERT
Menasha—Mrs. Mathilda Schubert, widow of John Schubert, 84, died early Sunday morning at her home, 413 Broad-st., after a three months' illness. She was born on the Island of Rega, Germany, and came to the United States at the age of 12 years with her parents, who located at Sheboygan Falls. She made her home there until after she was married and then went to Milwaukee where she resided for two years. In 1861 she and her husband moved to Menasha, where she made her home until her death. Mr. Schubert, who was engaged in the foundry and merchandizing business, died in 1893.

Seven children survive Mrs. Schubert. They are Mrs. John Lenz, Mrs. John Ciske, Mrs. Augusta Schubert, Menasha; A. H. Schubert, La Crosse; Mrs. James E. Tobin, Milwaukee; Edward J. Schubert, Tacoma, Wash.; and Mrs. S. G. Smith, Great Falls, Mont. Eighteen grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren also survive. The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Mary's church. Grandsons will act as bearers. The services will be conducted by the Rev. J. Hummel. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

LOSE RURAL SCHOOLS DURING CONVENTION

All Outagamie-co rural schools will be closed Thursday to enable teachers to attend the annual district school board convention to be held at Wilson High school. It was announced Monday. Attendance of teachers is virtually compulsory. Approximately 600 persons are expected to attend. Final program details have not been completed. County Superintendent A. C. Meating said.

NEENAH GIRL INJURED WHEN CAR LEAVES ROAD

Miss Alice Levick, 440 E. North Water-st., Neenah, suffered a slightly strained back and minor cuts and bruises about 12:30 Monday morning, when the car in which she was riding was forced down the road into a ditch on highway 25 at the north city limits of Menasha. The car was driven by Theodore Gartzke, Hortonville. Thomas Landers, Appleton, and another girl were in the car but were uninjured.

The Gartzke car was going south from Appleton when it was forced from the highway by an automobile, which cut in front of it. The Gartzke car struck a mailbox on the side of the road, tearing it from its foundation.

Miss Levick's condition was greatly improved Monday afternoon. It was thought that she would leave Theda Clark hospital Tuesday morning.

ELKS PROMINENT IN PARADE IN GREEN BAY

Between 50 and 100 Appleton Elks attended the annual state convention at Green Bay, Saturday. The Appleton Elks' band made a "hit" in the parade which took place Saturday afternoon. The parade was somewhat of a failure owing to the heavy rain. The band was to play a concert following the march but it was postponed. The large drum purchased for use in the parade attracted considerable attention, according to E. F. Mumm, director. The local club also was represented by a large float which represented a lodge in session.

KAUKAUNA COUPLE INJURED IN CRASH

Roy Gabrielson and a unidentified girl from Kaukauna, seriously injured when the car in which they were riding was involved in a crash, were driven by William Hanson, town of Deer Creek, about 7:30 Sunday evening on Highway 26, about two and one half miles from Bear Creek corner. According to witnesses Hanson seemed to lose control of his car as he approached the Gabrielson machine and swerved directly in its path. Gabrielson suffered two broken ribs and severe internal injuries and the girl was badly scalded from hot water which escaped from the radiator of the car. Both young people were taken care of at the home of Gabrielson's sister, Mrs. William Delouah, at Marion, whom they had been visiting that day. They were making the return trip to Kaukauna when the accident occurred.

J. L. Johns is ranch boss and the Rev. J. L. Menzies is secretary of the drive. Each outfit is composed of five cowboys and the foreman.

Markets

IRREGULARITY IN MARKET OPENING

Contrasting Elements of Strength and Weakness Give Uncertain Appearance

New York—(P)—Contrasting elements of strength and weakness gave an irregular appearance on the stock market as trading was resumed Monday. General Motors advanced more than a point to a new high for the current movement but other motor shares encountered professional selling. Nickel Plate continued the rally started late last week but Chesapeake and Ohio lost a point.

Several unfavorable developments over the week end combined to check the promising rally which developed last Saturday. Uneasiness over the money situation resulting from the large deficit in the weekly bank statement had a restraining influence and some selling has been inspired by reports of the enormous property loss in the Florida hurricane. Railroads operating in that territory were particularly affected, Seaboard and Atlantic Coast lines quickly dropping 2 points or more.

Short selling gained headway in the motor group with Mack Trucks and Hudson depressed by rumors that keen competition was adversely affecting current earnings. United States Steel, American Smelting, Warner Pictures A and American Power and Light were heavy in the early dealings. A strong investment demand for leading rails sustained the market, however, and later started some short coverings. Signs of merger progress lifted Nickel Plate five points into new high ground together with Chesapeake and Ohio and Pere Marquette. Atchison, Delaware and Hudson and "Cotton Belt" also were strong. Foreign exchanges opened slightly lower, with sterling under 4.85.

BUYING IS HALTED
Concentrated buying of numerous railroad and industrial, resulting in a number of high prices for the year came to a halt shortly before midday when round amounts of various influential shares were thrown on the market. Atchison, United States Steel and General Motors came down 2 points from their hazy high figures and Chesapeake and Ohio, together with Shesapeake and Ohio, were conspicuously weak, falling 3 points under Saturday's final price. The renewal rate on call loans was advanced from 4 1/2 to 5 per cent.
